Macmillan Proposes Pact Of Nonaggression

Johnson Plays Down Criticism Of President In Missiles Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) obviously is discouraging Democratic criticism of President Eisenhower in the congressional controversy over the missiles program.

Johnson, a practical man at all times, recognized that he can't wholly prevent his colleagues from blasting away at Eisenhower and blaming the President himself for what they contend is a lag in rocketry.

But the Democratic leader obviously is applying the soft pedal where he can, in the belief that the best politics is not to appear to be playing politics where the security of the nation may be at stake.

Hillary Relaxes After Trek To South Pole

U.S. SOUTH POLE STATION, (AP) — Sir Edmund Hillary and four fellow New Zealanders relaxed with American friends Saturday after a hazardous 1,200-mile trek to the South Pole.

Hillary was confident he had laid the groundwork for a companion British Commonwealth team that expects to be the first ever to march clear across Antarctica.

Air Force Denies Plane Assigned For Nixon's Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force said Saturday it is not true that a jet tanker plane has been assigned for use of Vice President Nixon.

The Air Force said it has offered Nixon a flight in the plane, but that no date has been fixed. It issued the formal statement a few hours after Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.) had telegraphed Secretary of Defense McElroy saying he protested conversion of a "vital" needed Boeing KC135 jet tanker into a taxi for the vice president.

The Air Force said a KC135 assigned to the Air Research and Development Command has been undergoing testing for a considerable period of time and, in conjunction with the testing, orientation and familiarization flights have been given to senior Air Force staff personnel, including the secretary of the Air Force.

A similar orientation flight was offered to the vice president by the Air Force some days ago, but no date has been set.

Five Youths Die In Headon Crash

ATLANTA, Tex. (AP) — Five youths were killed early Saturday in a head-on crash in which three died in a burning car, another was thrown free and a fifth crushed behind the steering wheel of his auto.

The dead, all from nearby Queens City, in the car that burned were:

Jimmy Ray Chambliss, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Chambliss; Raymond Shelby, 15, son of Mrs. Velma Shelby; and Ogle Wise, 24, son of Mrs. Olan Wise.

Airman Robert Hall, 20, was pinned in his auto and Airman James West, 19, was thrown free. The two were driving back to Foster Air Force Base at Victoria, where they were stationed. Hall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Hall, live at Kinnard, Ill. West's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. West of Chicago.

The cars met on U. S. 59, 2½ miles north of Atlanta, in northeast Texas about 2:30 a.m.

Highway Patrolman Bill Dowd said a preliminary investigation indicated the car in which the three were riding was traveling north on the wrong side of the highway.

Vinson Opens Counter-Attack On Drive For One Chief Of Staff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee said Saturday that placing the armed services under a single chief of staff would mean "national suicide."

Vinson, who steers with an iron hand the House committee that considers military legislation, said:

"I refuse to be stampeded into precipitous and dangerous changes merely because a Soviet-built satellite is circling the earth."

He declared, moreover, that each service should be allowed to develop its own missiles independently.

Vinson's statement was a blast at the suggestions, multiplying during a Senate investigation of missile shortcomings, for tighter unification of the armed services. He was in effect serving notice that any legislation for this purpose will run into a major barrier in the House.

Vinson praised the present system, in which the commanders of the several services form a committee to set over-all policy. He set his face against any basic changes.

"The basic concept of the Joint Chiefs of Staff cannot be criticized as inferior or inadequate," he said. "We must not forget that the Joint Chiefs of Staff system won the greatest war in world history. The German government, which lost the war, was under the Supreme General Staff system."

Obviously striking back at statements that inter-service rivalry enabled the U.S.S.R. to surpass the United States in the missile field, Vinson said:

"Let each of the services develop their own weapons system, in spite of the fact that by so doing they are competing with each other. . . . If competition in business and industry has made America great, I see no reason to believe that coordinated competition is not just as healthy for our armed services."

Warning Failed To Save Life Of Mrs. Rushmore

NEW YORK (AP) — A psychiatrist's warning failed to save the life of Mrs. Howard Rushmore, whose prominent editor-writer husband shot her to death in a taxicab Friday night and then killed himself.

The psychiatrist had advised Mrs. Rushmore that, after many months of bitter quarreling, her husband had "reached the breaking point, and it was not safe to stay with him," it was disclosed today.

Several times Rushmore had threatened to kill his wife, it was reported, and two days before Christmas he chased her out of their Manhattan apartment with a shotgun. Since then they had lived apart.

Nevertheless she made a date to see him again Friday night—perhaps in a desperate effort to patch up their marital difficulties.

Around 7 p.m. the couple, quarreling once more, entered a taxicab near their E. 93rd St. residence. Moments later both lay dead in the back seat.

Rushmore, 45, had figured prominently in the news in recent years as a former Communist turned anti-Red fighter, and as an editor of the controversial expose magazine Confidential.

His 37-year-old attractive blonde wife was the former Frances Everett of Greensboro, N.C. and Atlanta, Ga. They met on The New York Journal-American, where Rushmore was a staff writer and she was woman's editor.

Jesuits, Protestants Disagree On Aid For Catholic Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of leading Jesuit educators took the stand Saturday that Roman Catholic schools should not be barred from any federal aid Congress votes to spur education in America.

But a predominantly Protestant organization re-emphasized its stand against federal funds going to the schools of any church. The statement was made by a group known as Protestants and Other Americans for Separation of Church and State.

Indonesia Says Dutch Have Made Reprisal Threats

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Foreign Minister Subandrio charged Saturday The Netherlands and other European nations are threatening Indonesia with military and economic reprisals for its anti-Dutch campaign. He warned of disastrous consequences for the West if the threats are carried out.

"We know that the Netherlands is currently campaigning for economic sanctions against Indonesia and is demanding that friendly countries reduce their aid to us," he told newsmen. "So far we have persuaded them not to."

But, he added, if economic reprisals are taken "no one can blame Indonesia if she is forced into unconventional or non-traditional trade patterns in order to survive the period of blockade."

As for military reprisals, Subandrio said the presence of Dutch warships off Singapore and North Sumatra, plus NATO discussions of the Dutch-Indonesian dispute, are considered "a direct military threat" to Indonesia.

Subandrio said there was "further foreign intervention" in Indonesian affairs but did not elaborate. He said the government had proof that unknown foreign planes had dropped arms on the East Indonesian island of Timor, half of which is Portuguese territory.

FORMER AUBURN MAN KILLS WIFE, HIMSELF

WHITTIER, Calif. (AP) — Police say a postman shot and killed his wife and himself Tuesday in front of their two young daughters.

Dead are John William Cottingham, 48, and his wife, Frances Maxine, 38.

Officers said Cottingham walked into the family living room from a bedroom carrying a rifle, said "I hate to do this," and shot his wife in the stomach. He then shot himself through the heart.

In the room were the couple's daughters, Nancy, 13 and Judy, 10. Police were told the parents had not been on speaking terms for several days.

The Cottinghams formerly lived in Auburn, Ill.

'Britain Ready For Talks To Test Sincerity Of Soviet Peace Offer'

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan proposed Saturday night an East-West nonaggression pact and perhaps a summit meeting later. Both have been urged repeatedly by the Soviet Union.

Macmillan declared in a nationwide broadcast that Britain is ready to negotiate either within or outside the United Nations to test the sincerity of Russia's current peace offensive.

"We could start by a solemn pact of nonaggression," the prime minister declared. "This has been done before. It would do no harm. It might do good."

He said that regardless of how the West goes about making its new approach to Russia, "the object would be to clear away the rubble of old controversies and disagreements — perhaps to get the path ready for a meeting of heads of government."

Policy Shift

Britain always has left the door open for a summit conference if there are reasonable prospects for success. But the statement on a nonaggression pact appeared to reflect a notable shift in government policy.

British government officials generally have discounted Russian proposals in this field in the past. They have often called attention to the fact that Russia had nonaggression pacts with most of the countries it swallowed up after World War II.

Macmillan, however, held out the possibility that Russia may have undergone a genuine change of attitude in the Sputnik age, a view not shared by his U. S. ally.

"Some people may think that it is no part of Communist philosophy or Russian intentions to bring any more countries into subjection by force," he said. "This may well be true. I do not rule it out. But can anyone be reasonably sure?"

"Often Speak Fair Words"

Macmillan said no one in the West can be sure of what Russia has in mind. Referring to Soviet New Year's greetings sent to Western leaders, he said:

Knowland Calls For Steady-Gait Defense Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) called Saturday for a steady-gait defense buildup which would avoid "peaks and valleys" of spending that might unbalance the budget.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, said that despite the security threat posed by the Russian satellite launchings, this country should avoid "starting on another period of deficit financing and increases in the national debt that would raise new inflationary pressures."

"It is far more important for the security of the country to have a steady, planned defense program without peaks and valleys of spending," he said. "We should establish a steady gait that will bring sound results rather than go by spurts."

Knowland spoke out in an interview after Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Senate Democratic leader, predicted the Democratic-controlled Congress will convene next week in a mood to break no delays in missile and satellite developments.

The Pentagon meantime took a new step to speed the missiles program. It announced it has awarded the Chrysler Corp. $2 million dollars worth of contracts for missiles, including 30 million for the intermediate-range Jupiter.

San Francisco (AP) — Six-year-old Sheryl Ann Machado was snatched from her bed early Saturday. She was rescued a few minutes later by her father, who found her kidnaper kneeling over the child in an adjoining yard.

When the father approached the man leaped over a fence and escaped.

The father, John Machado, 30, told police he was awakened by a child's cry shortly after midnight. He went to the bedroom occupied by Sheryl Ann and her sister, Pamela, 4.

Sheryl Ann was missing. Machado noticed that the door leading to the basement was open. He went down and saw the back door was open.

Then he heard a noise in the back yard. He saw Sheryl Ann lying on the grass and a man kneeling over her. The father called out and the kidnaper jumped to his feet, raced to a fence, and vaulted it.

Powerful winds and heavy rain lashed the full length of Cuba for almost 36 hours. Houses were destroyed, communications were disrupted and large trees were uprooted.

Crop and property damage on the island was expected to exceed a million dollars. The worst damage seemed to be in Pinar del Rio Province on the western end of the island, heart of Cuba's tobacco country.

Other crops also were heavily damaged. Harvesting of sugar cane was suspended temporarily. In Havana, cleanup teams were taking debris from mud-clogged streets near the bay. Hundreds of windows were shattered in the city and huge neon signs blown down.

Scores of Cubans were injured by flying glass or falls in flooded streets. Two persons were killed — a woman who drowned when she was swept into the bay and boats were missing, two deaths were listed and standing water on farm lands threatened millions of dollars worth of damage.

HAVANA (AP) — A storm that packed winds up to 73 miles an hour swept out to sea Saturday, leaving millions of dollars worth of property and crop damage in Cuba and southern Florida.

The loss of life was undetermined, but four persons were known dead, and more than 20 small boats were missing.

WAVERLY SISTERS ENGAGED

CATHLENE HARNEY

SANDRA HARNEY

WAVERLY — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harney, Sr., announce the engagements of their two daughters, Cathlene Ann and Sandra June. Cathlene is betrothed to Larry Mahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mahan of Palmyra. She is employed at the Wemple State Bank here and Mr. Mahan is a sophomore at Western University in Macomb. No date has been set.

Sandra will become the bride this summer of Norman C. Bettis of Palmyra. She is a senior at Waverly High School and Mr. Bettis is employed by the government in Macoupin county and also studying with the National School of Aeronautics.

Say 1961 Automobiles Won't Be Changed Much

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press
Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—The automobile makers will offer in 1961 already are being designed in the industry's styling and engineering departments but the work is surrounded with great secrecy.

Those who should know say drastic changes are not in the planning. The cars will be long and low. They will be powered with internal combustion engines, probably with slightly higher compression ratios.

All this means there will be no broad styling changes such as brought sharp increases in consumer demand for the Chrysler and Ford cars last year. It also means the industry is not yet ready to adopt gas turbine power plants on a broad scale for passenger cars.

And while the design of future models continues the major inter-est of the automobile engineering departments, time also is being devoted to the refinement of many optional accessories. A prime objective of the car makers is to find more economical means of producing some of the optional, extra-cost items, like fuel injection and air suspension.

Both these items represent substantial advances in their respective fields. Both, however, are somewhat costly. For that reason they are not likely to find wide acceptance in the lower price field which represents the greater part of the car market.

Fuel injection does everything that has been claimed for it. It provides quicker starts, smoother operation and greater mileage. There is no question it would find broad popularity if its cost could be cut 50 per cent or more.

Air suspension at $200 and under presents cost considerations, too, to the buyer of a car in the lower price bracket. The price undoubtedly explains the slow acceptance of air suspension to replace the conventional or coil springs.

Age-Old African Practice Of Wife Buying Continues

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Lobola, the Africa's age-old institution of wife purchasing, has undergone a radical change in urban areas where it has come in contact with the white man's way of life.

The contact by no means has put an end to the tradition of lobola (pronounced lawbawla), it has merely commercialized it.

In rural areas and African reservations, it is still practiced in the original form. The prospective groom pays his future father-in-law a certain number of cattle before he claims his bride. Usually the price depends on the status of the girl's family and her father's wealth.

In South African nonwhite townships built around large industrial centers, the daughters are sold for hard cash.

The value of a bride is still dictated by her family's position, but education pushes the price up.

African men have paid up to 200 pounds sterling ($500) for a bride with a good education.

Commented one bachelor: "If I wanted to marry a girl with a university degree, her family would fleece me."

But the bride does not arrive empty handed at the home of her bankrupt groom. The in-laws usually furnish the new home according to the amount of lobola paid.

African men are violently opposed to this pagan system, but it is perpetuated by old Africans with their roots still firmly embedded in tribal customs. Even the women-folk — the eligible ones, that is — have done nothing to help matrimonially minded young men abolish the system.

The more a man pays for his bride, the happier she is. She figures economic security is certain if the husband is able to afford hundreds of pounds for a wife.

"The women today are mercenary," the bachelors moan.

PLAN WEDDINGS

LINDA ANDERSON

BEVERLY DONALDSON

Holiday announcements by their parents have revealed the engagements of two young ladies well known in this community.

From East Moline, Illinois word has been received of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Linda Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen F. Anderson, 200 First Avenue in Hampton, near Moline, to Gerald Eugene Hull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hull of Port Byron.

The bride-elect formerly lived in Jacksonville and the daughter of the former Eileen Bates. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Martha Bates Watson, also a former local resident.

The couple plan a wedding in the fall of 1958. Miss Anderson is a graduate of United Township High School and is employed as secretary in the high school office.

Mr. Hull graduated from the same school and has served two years in the armed forces. He is employed at International Harvester Company at East Moline.

Ashland Bride-elect
Mr. and Mrs. Claude Donaldson of Ashland announce the engagement of their daughter, Beverly Ann, to Warren E. Roach, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roach of Ashland.

Miss Donaldson is a member of the 1958 graduating class at Ashland High School. Mr. Roach graduated last year from Jacksonville High School and is now engaged in farming.

Union Of Two Churches Ends Pastors' Meeting

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newfeatures Writer

For several years, the Rev. Theophilus Meckel and the Rev. Melvin Graupmann used to pass each other going in opposite directions on U. S. Route 10 in Otter Tail County, Minn.

They don't do it anymore. The tale of the two Minnesota ministers is the showpiece of an informal year-end report on the soon-to-be-completed merger of the Congregational Christian and Evangelical and Reformed churches.

Union of the two large Protestant denominations into the United Church of Christ was voted last June. It won't be official until a constitution, currently being drafted, is completed.

But lack of legislative action hasn't prevented the individual churches from getting together in fellowship to prepare for the official church union.

The Rev. Mr. Meckel is pastor of the Congregational Church in Wadena, Minn. Each Sunday morning, he used to drive 13 miles to conduct early services in the Congregational Church in New York Mills.

The Rev. Mr. Graupmann is pastor of the Evangelical and Reformed Church in Perham. Each Sunday morning, he would drive 24 miles for services at his denomination's church in Wadena.

Since the merger conference, the 40 members of the Wadena Evangelical and Reformed Church have joined the Rev. Mr. Meckel's flock and members of the New York Mills congregational church have accepted the Rev. Mr. Graupmann as their pastor.

All of which is an informal way of noting that merger plans are progressing in fine style on the grass roots level. Like the Minnesota ministers, the two denominations are no longer passing each other in opposite directions.

In Wheatland, Wyo., the Bethlehem Evangelical and Reformed Church has united with the Congregational Church.

The denominations' youth group, Pivotal Fellowship (Congregational) and Youth Fellowship (Evangelical and Reformed) held joint rallies and camp programs during the past year. They plan their first joint national conference next June in New York.

MRS. HENRY A. ALDRIDGE, JR.

Elizabeth Caldwell And Henry Aldridge Jr. Married At Trinity Episcopal Church

Miss Elizabeth Janet Caldwell and Henry A. Aldridge, Jr., both of Jacksonville, were united in marriage at eleven o'clock Wednesday morning, January first, at Trinity Episcopal church. The rector, Reverend George Clark, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Henry H. Caldwell, 1244 West College avenue, and the late Mr. Caldwell. Since her graduation from MacMurray College, she has been employed as kindergarten teacher at the Illinois Braille and Sight Saving School.

The groom is the son of Henry A. Aldridge of Virden and the late Mrs. Aldridge. He is a graduate of James Millikin University, Decatur and holds a Master's Degree. Mr. Aldridge is employed as a welfare worker at Illinois Braille and Sight Saving school.

The church organist, Mrs. Ruth M. Bellatti played the following selections before the service, "Chorale Preludes," J. S. Bach; "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring," J. S. Bach; "Choral in E Major," Cesar Franck.

The soloist during the prelude was William N. Malotke, baritone and former local resident now living at Park Ridge, Illinois. Mr. Malotke sang, "I Will Sing These Songs of Gladness," Dvorak; "The Call," from Five Mystical Songs by R. Vaughan Williams and "O Perfect Love," Barnby.

"Trumpet Voluntary," Purcell, was the processional and "Sinfonia" from the Cantata, Praised be the Lord, J. S. Bach, served as the recessional.

Cousin Gives Bride in Marriage
The bride, who was given in marriage by a cousin, Charles H. Story of Jacksonville, wore a white knit dress trimmed with pearls. Her hat in white had brief pearl adornment and held a short veil in illusion falling shoulder length. Her bouquet was of white rose buds centering a purple throated orchid.

Twyla Hamey Bride

MR. AND MRS. BILLY JOSEPH MANN

At a pre-Christmas wedding at Central Christian church Chapel the Sunday before Christmas, December twenty-second, Miss Twyla Marie Hamey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Hamey, 906 Edgehill Road, became the bride of Billy Joseph Mann, son of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Mann of Fulton, Mississippi. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Reverend Gerald Miller. Mr. Hamey gave his daughter in marriage in the double ring ceremony.

Ferns and poinsettias adorned the altar. Miss Navang Eyre was soloist for the prelude, accompanied by Miss Yuelletta Ralston at the piano. Miss Eyre's numbers were "Because," "Always" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Brock attended the couple and Myron Richard Hamey, brother of the bride, ushered guests to their seats.

The former Miss Hamey chose a two piece rose-beige knit dress with which she wore a lighter beige hat with a short veil. Her accessories were winter white and her flowers pink carnations.

Parents Entertain
Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. A four tiered wedding cake centered the serving table. A miniature bride and groom topped the cake which had been baked by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Homer Harrison. Guests were served ham and turkey buffet dinner from a table decorated with candles and poinsettias. Mrs. C. Earl Holterman presided at the coffee urn. Mrs. Lyle Davis was at the punch bowl and Mrs. James Robson served cake.

After a brief wedding trip the couple returned to Jacksonville to spend the holidays with the bride's parents before leaving for Tupelo, Mississippi, where the groom is employed by the W. L. McClellan Freight Line.

Mrs. Mann graduated from Jacksonville High School in 1956 and later from Gale Institute in Minneapolis, Minnesota. Prior to her marriage she was employed at the First National Bank in St. Petersburg, Florida.

The bridegroom received his education in schools at West-point, Mississippi, completed three years military services with the 82nd Airborne Division, U. S. Army, and since his discharge has been employed at Tupelo.

MRS. RICHARD E. SELLARS

Ceremony At Central Christian Church Unites Sheryl Elaine Savage And Richard E. Sellars

Many friends and relatives attended the Savage-Sellars wedding December twenty-ninth at Central Christian church, a highlight of the holiday social events. The bride, Sheryl Elaine, is the younger daughter of the Ernest C. Savages, 524 Rosedale, and the groom, Richard E. Sellars, is the son of Mrs. Inez Sellars, 925 Goltra avenue, and the late Albert Sellars.

The mid-afternoon ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church, Reverend Gerald Miller. White mums at the altar contrasted with greenery of fern illuminated by burning tapers in candelabra. A white aisle cloth extended from the church entrance to the altar and white draped kneeling bench.

Before the ceremony Mrs. John (Jack) Gillespie, sang "Through the Years" and "I Love Thee, Dear" and as the couple knelt following an exchange of vows, "Wedding Prayer." The soloist was accompanied at the organ by Robert Wegelhof who played the traditional processional and recessional.

The bride's sister, Ellender, wife of Russell Morris, was matron of honor. Miss Diane Thomas was bridesmaid and little Lynn Morris, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Carrying the betrothal rings was Chris Morris, nephew of the bride. He wore a dinner jacket with dark trousers and carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

Mrs. Morris and Miss Thomas were gowned identically in red iridescent taffeta with a deeper shade trim. The ballerina length dresses were made on princess lines with off shoulder bodice framed with fold pleats in a darker red and coming to a modified V at the back offset with flat bows and streamers reaching to the hemline of the dresses. The skirts were full and worn over hats and mits to match the predominant color of their costumes.

Clear plastic slippers completed the outfits and each carried cascade bouquets of red carnations and holly tied with red ribbons.

The little flower girl was dressed identical to the senior attendant even to mits of velvet matching the shade of her dress. She wore split red carnations in her hair and carried a white basket containing red petals.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of antique taffeta of classic simplicity. The V cut neckline of the tightly fitted bodice was framed with embroidered applique. The sleeves of the dress were long and tapered smoothly over the wrists. The very full skirt had applique detail repeated to correspond with the trim at the

The mother of the bride, Mrs. E. C. Savage, wore mauve pink lace with satin trim and a matching color hat. Her basic accessories were black and her flowers fuchsia pompoms tied with matching ribbon.

Mrs. Sellars, mother of the groom, wore Dior blue lace with satin trim. Her hat matched her gown and her basic accessories were black. Blue pompoms tied with blue ribbon comprised her corsage.

Both maternal grandmothers of the couple attended the wedding. Mrs. E. E. Shipe of Quincy, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Rose Dahman of this city, grandmother of the groom. Each wore red roses.

Receive at Church
Guests were received at a reception held in the parlors of the church. The traditional wedding cake centered the serving table and was surrounded at the base with greenery and white mums, trimmed with sugar bells and iridescent pink flowers and topped with a double ring motif.

Miss Bonnie Wahlheim of Geneseo served punch and three cousins of the groom, Miss Jean Sellars and Miss Melba Sellars served punch and Miss Edna Mae Mason served coffee. Miss Donna Morris registered the guests.

Others assisting in the serving included Mrs. John May, Mrs. Gladys Rust, Mrs. Jack Thomas, Mrs. James Robson, Mrs. Lee Lyons, Mrs. Navalee Eyre and Miss Nancy Robson.

The couple spent a brief honeymoon in St. Louis. The bride's going away costume was a black wool crepe sheath with matching jacket and white Borgana collar. Her hat, also in white Borgana, was trimmed with a tiny satin bow and the orchids from her wedding bouquet completed her costume.

Both the bride and groom graduated from Jacksonville High School with the class of 1956. The bride attended Cotter College at Nevada, Missouri last year and is now a sophomore at MacMurray College where she is a member of the Town Girls Club. The groom attended schools at Winchester before becoming a student at the local high school. He is employed in this city at the Jacksonville Engraving Company.

Among the out of town guests, other than those previously mentioned, were Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Shipe and family of Moline, uncle and aunt of the bride; Mrs. Truman Waite, Mrs. Ralph Waite, Ursula Illinois and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wahlheim of Geneseo, Illinois.

MRS. CAREY HOSTESS AT TURKEY DINNER
Mrs. Rosa Carey, 735 East College avenue, entertained at a turkey dinner on New Year's day. Those present included her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Grady, Mrs. Ethel Thomas Stout, Mrs. Evona Baxley, and Edward Madden.

Mrs. Dawson and Mrs. Smith are daughters of the Rev. and Mrs. Fitch.

Circle Recalls Long History Of Friendships

Members of the South Side Circle met Friday afternoon, Jan. 2 with Mrs. E. A. Schoedsack, 265 King Court, with an attendance of 16. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Earl Underbrink, the vice president, was in charge.

Mrs. Mary Hall presented Mrs. Lena Kerns, who gave the program, "Treasures In Friends." She related the history of the South Side Circle which was organized in 1892 and meets each Friday. Mrs. Hall's talk brought happy memories to several older members of the club.

Roll call was answered with a Friendship verse.

After the serving of refreshments the club adjourned, to convene Jan. 17 with Mrs. Mary Stawm at the Southernaire restaurant.

Need to increase that creamed tuna dish for unexpected company? Add canned shrimp; the flavors go nicely together.

Shorter Evening Gowns

Evening gowns in the short and graceful length predominate again for spring. Pretty coral silk chiffon gown (left) by Ren Reig has bodice draped and embroidered with tassels in tassel form. Hand-painted Chantilly lace gown (right) in royal and white is from Harvey Berlin's spring collection. It has royal blue satin shoulder straps criss-crossed low in the back.

BY GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Snug waistlines, full skirts and short lengths make up the most important look for evening dresses this spring.

Where the floor length gown does appear, it's usually a sheath version, cut narrow and slinky and sometimes shown with companion jacket.

Printed silks, short chiffon forms with their own cashmere sweaters, laces, and silk organ-dies make dresses that are purely pretty. Many of these have the draped bodice for contrast with a widely-blossoming skirt.

Increasingly, evening dresses show some sort of straps or even tiny cap sleeves as opposed to the strapless tops of seasons past.

Chalk beading, jet discs, sequins, crystals and brilliants are used for all-over patterns in the embroidered manner. These appear on both bodices and skirts. Though the beaded chemise short and shapeless, turns up in some collections, it's usually shown as a novelty. It most often has rhinestone straps and sometimes, in addition, fringing over the skirt. But it's hardly a trend.

Colors for evening gowns tend to be more brilliant than is usual for spring, with royal blue, sharp green and stronger prints showing up. Oranges and hot reds will appear, too. And, as always, the softer pastels are shown since many women find them the ultimate in flattery.

Resolved: New Year, New Shape

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The New Year is the best time to start putting all those beauty resolutions into practice. The first one probably concerns diet, whether it involves taking off just a few pounds gained during the holidays or a good many pounds.

Since there's a suggestion of both austerity and the clean slate about the New Year, it's the right atmosphere in which to begin your diet. You'll find that you've plenty of company. Lots of other American women will be doing the same thing.

While you're changing your eating habits (and that's what a diet really means), you might want to change your rest habits, too. You may have gotten into the bad habit of staying up late during the holiday season. If so, now's the time to set yourself a regular bedtime hour and keep it. If you like to read before you go to sleep, get yourself into bed half an hour earlier and allow that leeway for reading time.

This is the time, then, to start regaining your figure, clear skin and sparkling eyes. Diet and rest are the best methods known.

Most mature women have a hair problem of some sort. If you observe closely, you'll notice dry, thinning hair, hair that's lackluster, hair that looks brittle. There's a reason for this beyond the simple fact of middle age. It's a lack of hair care.

For the truth is, there are middle-aged women and elderly women, too, who possess magnificent hair, thick and vibrant and alive. But these women haven't spent hours under hot dryers. They have used a hairbrush, not a comb. They have been faithful about eating the right foods, disciplined about enough sleep and careful to include enough proteins, minerals and vitamins in their daily intake.

If you take a second look, you'll see that these are the women who also have strong nails, clear skin. It really isn't mysterious, after all.

Keeping the collar of your winter coat clean and free of make-up can be a problem. About the best method known to woman-kind is the use of the scarf. Then you have a new problem: keeping the scarf clean.

The answer to this one is a frequent change of scarves. And no fair wearing a scarf that's dingy, one that's been washed and either faded or had its colors run together or one that clashes with your coat. It is a sort of beauty aid, after all!

Rev. Miller Is BPWC Speaker

The regular meeting of the Jacksonville Business and Professional Women's club was held Thursday evening, Jan. 2, at the Dunlap Hotel.

Marjorie Shearburn, chairman of finance, introduced the guest speaker, the Reverend Gerald Miller, pastor of Central Christian church. Reverend Miller presented Thoughts for the New Year.

Navana Byrne, junior year student at Jacksonville High School, sang two selections accompanied at the piano by Mrs. E. D. Canalesey.

Mrs. Norma May, co-owner of May's Music Shop, was introduced as a new member. The club will have charge of the March of Dimes booth on Jan. 17. Miss Jean Powers is chairman.

The business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Raymond Davidson. Co-chairman with Mrs. Shearburn for the program was Miss Cecile Munis and committee members were Mrs. Katherine Adams, Miss Elizabeth Bender, Mildred Fisher, Geraldine Mason, Estelene Scribner and Mary J. Wagner.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 17 with the courtesy committee in charge, Mrs. Hazel Timmons, and Marguerite Schoedsack, co-chairman.

Mrs. Mildred Pierson and members of her publicity committee will be in charge of the Hobby Table.

Quick casserole—arrange canned drained asparagus in a shallow baking dish and sprinkle with diced cooked chicken or turkey; cover with white sauce and grated cheese. Bake in a moderate or hot oven.

Beauty Tips

Chapped hands in chilly, wet weather can be avoided. Always put on gloves before going outdoors and use hand cream lavishly during the cold months.

Facial muscles need exercise so they will resist letting down as the years move on. One exercise calls simply for opening the mouth, a normal state for women, according to most men. But to exercise these muscles, open the mouth, drop your jaw and then close your mouth. Repeat this from 10 to 20 times several times during a week.

Biggest, Costliest Auto Show In History Opens In Chicago

CHICAGO—The auto industry opened Saturday the biggest and costliest display of motor vehicles in its history.

It was the 50th renewal of the Chicago Automobile Show. Technically the presentation, to run for nine days in the International Amphitheatre, is sponsored by the Chicago area retail dealers. But it has greater financial and product support from the car makers than ever before.

The more than 400 vehicles shown along with allied products and the cost of producing the show has been placed at 20 million dollars. For the car industry the show, in effect, is its initial 1958 major effort to stimulate a slackening demand for automobiles.

But while many industry executives are forecasting a lower sales volume for the year ahead, several of their colleagues are saying only a return of confidence is needed to make 1958 compare favorably with last year's approximately $6 billion unit sales.

One optimist among the industry leaders here for the show is Edward N. Cole, general manager of GM's Chevrolet division. "All the economy needs," Cole told a news conference, "is a change in attitude. Business leaders should talk more positively—not pessimistically."

Cole said that while Ford apparently has topped Chevrolet in new car sales for 1957, the final margin probably will be less than 30,000 units when sales tabulations are completed.

Saying Chevrolet is looking forward aggressively for 1958, he said heavy production is being scheduled for the first quarter of the current year. "We think the business is there," he said. "We are going out on a very aggressive campaign to stimulate the auto business."

He added that Chevrolet's production for 1958 might reach 1,625,000 units. Its 1957 total was 1,522,538 in unofficial figures.

Competing with glittering motor vehicles for visitor interest at the show are two of the Army's larger missiles, the Redstone and Jupiter. The weapons, each more than 60 feet long, are said to be capable of tremendous speed and almost pinpoint accuracy.

Also attracting visitor attention are a score of old-time cars, nearly 100 foreign-built vehicles, several new models still to go to dealer sale and the usual array of cutaway models of car transmissions, braking systems, air conditioning devices and other units.

The new models yet to be shown by retailers include De Soto's Adventurer; Mercury's new Medalist in the lower price area and Ford's larger Thunderbird.

21 Colleges In Illinois Receive Larger Support

CHICAGO—Gifts by corporations to 23 Illinois liberal arts colleges through Associated Colleges of Illinois, Inc., increased 16 percent in 1957, to $501,669.

The total was reported Saturday by Ernest A. Johnson of Lake Forest College, who heads the group, a foundation established by educators and business to stimulate corporate support of higher education.

"The most heartening aspect of our program," Johnson said, "is that this support came from a large group of 312 corporations of every size and in every line of endeavor."

Members of the association are Augustana College, Aurora College, Barat College, Blackburn College, Carthage College, George Williams College, Greenville College, Illinois College, Illinois Wesleyan University, Knox College, Lake Forest College, Lincoln College, MacMurray College, Millikin University, Monmouth College, Mundelein College, National College of Education, North Park College, Olivet Nazarene College, The Principia, Quincy College, Roosevelt University and Shimer College.

Bride At Brooklyn Church

MRS. GLENN DALE MAYBERRY

An impressive ceremony at Brooklyn Methodist church Saturday afternoon, December twenty-first, united in marriage Miss Wanda Jean McArtor and Specialist Third Class Glenn Dale Mayberry, both of this city. The double ring service was read by the pastor, the Reverend Clarence Bigler.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McArtor, 1351 South East street. Mr. McArtor gave his daughter in marriage. The groom is the son of Mrs. Althea Mayberry, 476 South Mauvalterre street.

Candelabra, ferns and palms roses with gardenias. Mrs. Nagel wore blue net with a silver thread over matching taffeta, also waist length and made with boat cut neckline. Her head-dress was of white and blue flowers and she carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. McArtor wore for her daughter's wedding navy crepe with matching color hat. Her accessories were black and her flowers red roses. Mrs. Mayberry chose a dress in royal blue with a white hat, black accessories and corsage of red roses.

Reception At Church
A reception was held following the ceremony with guests being received in the church parlors. Blue and white were carried out in the appointments. A three tiered cake featured the serving table and large white wedding bells were suspended above with streamers of blue and white extending from corners of the room.

Gowned In Lace
The petite bride wore a gown of white lace on taffeta fashioned with long sleeves and low rounded neckline. The waist length skirt was very full and worn over crinolines. Her finger-tip length veil fell from a small crown of lace embroidered with tridacene sequins and seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a showered arrangement of white to the bells. The white frosted cake was trimmed with touches of yellow and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Wedding bells predominated in the mounds and even the ice cubes cooling the fruit punch served with cake and nutmeats. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Ray Mayberry, Miss Mary Godfrey and Miss Margaret Megginson. Guests were registered by Miss Phyllis Scott and Miss Glenna Seymour was in charge of the gifts.

When the newlyweds left for a short wedding trip to St. Louis, Missouri, the bride was wearing a two piece blue knit dress with black accessories and the corsage taken from her wedding flowers. The bride attended schools in Jacksonville and is presently employed at the Kroger store in this city. The groom attended Franklin schools and is serving with the Army at Fort Storey, Virginia. He will receive his discharge from service this coming October.

Give New Year's Eve Dinner At Roodhouse Home

ROODHOUSE — Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cressy entertained the members of their supper club at a New Year's Eve dinner at their country home. Prizes at bridge were awarded to a number of guests and the charades games were won by the ladies. Movies were taken of the group during the evening. One of the members, Mrs. Ross Manning, presented each couple with rolls for New Year's Day breakfast.

Present besides the host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Henry, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Hopkins, all of Roodhouse; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Tuyle and Mr. and Mrs. William Andras, Manchester.

Jim Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mitchell, San Antonio, Tex., and Carol Jean Ensminger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis C. Ensminger, Brentwood, Mo., were united in marriage Saturday morning at 11 in a ceremony performed in the University City Methodist church. A reception at the bride's home was held from 1 until 3 in the afternoon.

Attending from this area were the grandmother, Mrs. E. W. Mitchell, Roodhouse; Mr. and Mrs. John Pollock, Winchester; Mrs. Carl Morrison, Jacksonville; and the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mitchell, San Antonio, Tex., who were visiting his mother at the time.

Both young people are students at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, where they will reside until they graduate in the spring.

The Mitchell family formerly resided in Roodhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mitchell have returned to their home in San Antonio, Tex., after a visit with his mother, Mrs. E. W. Mitchell, and other relatives.

Mrs. Ethelyn Cuddy entertained with a New Year's Day dinner in the evening. Guests were Mesdames J. W. Keller, Urban Andrews, Virgie McFiver, Robert Conlee, Frank Denham, Margaret Sullivan and Miss Mabel Hopkins.

MRS. EYRE HOSTESS TO CHURCH GROUP

The December meeting of group 7, of the Christian Women's Fellowship of Central Christian Church was held at the home of Mrs. Naville Eyre, 2344 W. State street. The group enjoyed a potluck dinner amid beautiful seasonal settings after which a short business meeting was held.

Mrs. Paul Rust opened the meeting by leading the group in a devotional reading and prayer, in keeping with the season. Fellowship Service Projects were reported on, and it was announced that the Annual United Council of Churches meeting will be held on January 10 at Brooklyn Methodist Church. It was also announced that World Day of Prayer is February 21.

Mrs. Joseph Doolin then led the group in a very impressive program, highlighted by several group members reading portions of "The Legend of the Black Madonna." This was followed by the entire group singing Christmas carols accompanied by Mrs. Leonard Preston playing the piano. The next meeting will be on Jan. 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the Christian Home.

Mix minced chives and parsley with melted butter and use for basting lobster halves that are being broiled.

Illinois Prairie Council Girl Scout News

The Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Board will meet at 1:30 p.m. in the Girl Scout Office on Tuesday, Jan. 7. It is hoped that we can have 100% attendance, as evidence of renewed interest in Girl Scouting for the year 1958. The meeting will be of special interest to committee heads.

Waverly Rebekah Installation Set For January 10

WAVERLY—The annual installation of newly elected and appointive officers of the Rebekah lodge will be held Jan. 10 during the regular meeting, which starts at 7:30 p.m. and Mrs. Maude Mader will be deputy president, in charge of the installation.

Mrs. Pansy Huskemeyer of Centralia will hold the Rebekah School of Instruction at the Feb. 14 regular meeting.

Legion Auxiliary To Meet
The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will be Tuesday evening, Jan. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Legion building.

The refreshment committee will be Frances Whalen and Lena Ryan, co-chairmen; Nora Dorwart, Lillie Pollitt, Veda Gooden, Rose Baggerly, Irene Ashbaugh, Bernita Bivin, Dorothy Handy, Mary Baskin and Elsie Ashbaugh.

Brief News Notes
Mrs. Allen Burns will be hostess to the Woman's Fellowship of the Congregational Church on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 7, at 2:30 p.m. The devotions will be led by Mrs. Erna Mann and Mrs. Lester Seales will be program leader, the subject being, "Christians Look at Race Relations."

Mr. and Mrs. George Ritter and sons, Gordon and Gary, arrived home from a holiday vacation Monday. They spent their vacation in Brownsville, Texas, and brought back proof that they had an enjoyable time. One picture, appearing on the front page of the Brownsville newspaper, showed Gordon and Gary in a swimming pool while their parents watched from the side. They did quite a bit of fishing too.

The January meeting of the Child Welfare department of the Woman's club, instead of the regular date January 8, will be a social evening on Sunday, Jan. 12. A family night potluck supper will be served in the home ec room at the high school at 6:30 p.m. followed by entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Huson spent Christmas in Decatur, at a family gathering held at the home of their son, Keith Huson and family. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Huson and family and Kenneth Huson of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huson and family of Harvey; Mr. and Mrs. Otis Upton of Galatia; Mrs. Virgil Bramley and Mrs. Nellie Huson of Palmyra.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mayberry in Florida. Mrs. Mayberry's sister, and son, Gary, spent the holidays Mrs. Harold Clarida, and Norma and Glenn of Galatia, Ill., went with them.

Last Sunday and Monday Mrs. Ray McCollum and son, Stephen, attended the spring market showing in St. Louis, Mo. Sunday evening they visited Mrs. Robert H. Gohsen of O'Fallon, a niece of Mrs. McCollum.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gordon entertained New Year's Eve with a family gathering in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Beasley and son, Tod, of Huntington, W. Va., and a granddaughter of Mrs. Gordon who has spent ten days visiting here and with other relatives and also left for home New Year's day. Others present besides the hosts and Beasleys were Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Chapman of Modesto, who are parents of Mrs. Beasley; Mr. and Mrs. George Ritter and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ashbaugh and children.

Mrs. Thelma Dean Stewart and two daughters of Girard spent Tuesday visiting with Mrs. Chester Ashbaugh.

Country Club Dances Climax To Holiday For Young Students

Two dances were held this past week at the Jacksonville Country Club for the young student group. Members and their guests enjoyed an evening dance from nine to 12 midnight Thursday, Jan. 2, and Friday, Jan. 3, a tea dance was held from three to six in the afternoon.

At the left, one of the couples attending the afternoon dance are pictured just leaving the Claude Davis home, 1239 West State street. Jared Hopper, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Hopper, and a student at Western Military Academy, escorted the Davis daughter, Sally, who attends Jonathan Turner school.

Attendance at both dances was comfortably crowded and included young people from Jacksonville, Rockhouse, Pittsfield and other surrounding towns.

Among the dancing couples in the picture opposite this one are Kathy Lane and Bill Thomson and Myron Hamsey and Navana Eire.

The picture at the right was taken at the Arthur French home, 1201 Mound avenue, just as their daughter, Joy, was leaving with her escort, Tom Ooley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ooley, for the dance Friday.

Tom and Joy both attend Jonathan Turner Junior High School in this city.

A credit to most adults was the conduct of the six young people shown above at one of the dance floor Friday afternoon. The three young ladies at the left from front to back are Carol Flynn, Cheryl McDaniel and Linda Sereno. The boys, listed from the back of the table to the front, are Larry Massey, Mike Herrin and Vernon Carver.

The opposite picture shows two of the couples from this group on the dance floor. Larry Massey and Cheryl McDaniel and Carol Flynn dancing with Vernon Carver.

Look Out, Gals; Padding's Going to Your Hips

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK —(NEA)—Martin Schur fumbled around in his breast pocket for a little while before deciding the papers were still in his unpacked luggage which had just come through customs.

"Anyway," he concluded, "I had a wonderful trip through Europe. I didn't have to sell anybody. Business just fell into my hands."

Martin Schur is the world's leading salesman of padding—that spongy material used so widely in underwear, girdles, bras, and other women's apparel. He is the man who sold three million yards last year already supplies more than half of the American demand.

"But that foreign market," he said, "Oh boy! I don't mean it's booming. But we're off to a start."

In 12 nations, many with austere economies and restrictions on importing American goods, he had succeeded in getting trade barriers dropped on special orders.

Schur's foam-padding, it turns out, has been admitted under the warper as a hardship material—really necessary.

The same thing can be said for this country. Industry figures show that American girls and women spent $1 million dollars on padded items last year. And if present plans work out, it should be far more next year.

According to Schur's silhouette engineers, padding is going to be used in a new way. The design is their padding with relief." She hinted, too, at the satisfaction of deep-seated psychological needs. Fears of femininity in jeopardy; the need to be held tightly; being in the styles set by Hollywood stars.

And salesman Schur sees it as the only logical way to bolster prolonged sales of the undergarment and a new market for him.

Besides, he said, it's just following the Hollywood style of padding movie stars to make them look like other movie stars.

The result of this kind of thinking has created an enormous industry which is furnishing American womanhood with trusses, tricot and enormous euphemisms—all in blatant violation of the law of gravity.

With developments in vector analysis, organic chemistry and mass communications, it has not been hard to convince women of what they already suspected. The natural figure is wrong, wrong, wrong.

Convincing foreign women—European women especially—is more difficult. Of course, I only had a few samples with me.

But you should have seen the wonderful response I got—so soon I explained what they were for."

The demand is there, he said. The Germans know it and they're working hard on a synthetic foam padding.

"It's not to fool anybody," she said, asking that her name be used in the trade.

Baby Makes Debut Christening Day

BY KAY SHERWOOD

If a new baby has recently joined the household, it's time to plan a social christening and for what? A baptism, a christening, a christening, a christening.

Questions about specific baptismal procedures can be answered by your minister.

Ordinarily, a baby is baptized when she's very young, although this is not a hard and fast rule. If you're buying a new ensemble for your little beauty, you'll want to have it ready for her first baptism.

If you're buying a new ensemble for your little beauty, you'll want to have it ready for her first baptism.

Three godparents for a child are permissible in some denominations; a baby girl would have two godmothers and one godfather; a boy, two godfathers and one godmother.

BRING A GODPARENT is both an honor and a responsibility, so choose with care.

If a godparent can't be present for the christening, you'll need him to get a proxy to stand in for him.

UNEXPECTED ASSISTANCE

SELINSBORO, Pa. (AP)—A Pennsylvania Game Warden received unexpected assistance as he approached a pair of hunters in a corn field, when he suspected they were shooting pheasants out of season.

Warden Raymond Holzapfel said before he could question the hunters, one man's hunting dog ran up to the warden and laid the evidence, a freshly killed bird, at his feet. The warden's master dog, named "Hootie," was a pointer and was shooting pheasants out of season.

Warden Holzapfel said he was surprised to find the dog's head in his hands. "You see, women all over the world need padding. They just don't know it yet."

BUILDS OWN ROAD

ST. AGATHA, Maine (AP)—Edwin Pelletier of Presque Isle, a 20-acre island in Long Lake here, built this year, the only way to reach the island was by boat.

"Sick and tired of running a ferry," Pelletier had a causeway built. It took 5,000 yards of rock and 36,000 yards of gravel. Now he has his own road, three fourths of a mile long and 18 inches above the spring high water mark. He figures it will make easier his job of raising potatoes, grain and hay. He also pictures beef cattle on the island.

GOOD SHOT

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP)—Barry Cox and a hawk had the same idea.

When he drew a head on the squirrel, he had swooped down, grabbed the animal and zoomed away.

Cox killed the bird with one toasty-warm cap. He was shot, then the squirrel was the toasty-warm cap. He was shot, then the squirrel was the toasty-warm cap.

TEST FLUNKED

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—The Pennsylvania Game Warden was suspiciously demanded that he be given a drunkometer test.

A leonine notation on the police blotter told the result:

"You see, women all over the world need padding. They just don't know it yet."

WASTES NO TIME

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—A Denver taxpayer wasted no time notifying the U. S. Internal Revenue Service of an added tax exemption on George H. Allan, Colorado resident, received the notice in the mail—a colorful birth announcement card saying that a 6-pound, 13-ounce baby boy had been added to the taxpayer's family. The card contained no other remarks.

FLUE CLOSES SCHOOL

NELSONVILLE, Ohio (AP)—It was a flue, but not the 'flu, which closed East Elementary School. Students were dismissed when a clogged flue in the heating system made it impossible to warm the building. And, unlike influenza, this flue trouble was cleared up in less than a day, school authorities said.

Kitchen Tips

Wrap a loaf of French bread in aluminum foil and heat in a moderate oven for about 15 minutes. Good when you're having a casserole for a main dish. Instead of using foil, you can place the bread in a brown paper bag, twisting the ends closed, before heating.

Wrap bacon strips around canned water chestnuts (the small ones) and bake in a hot oven until the bacon is crisp and brown. Place the tidbits on a rack so the fat can drip down during the baking. Serve with the sauce from mango chutney.

A light-colored honey is usually milder in flavor than a dark-colored one.

When you don't want to stuff a duck, quarter and core a couple of apples and insert in a body cavity before roasting.

Finely diced celery and chili sauce are good additions to mayonnaise to be used on a shrimp salad.

Add a little dry mustard to a regular cocktail sauce for shrimp or other seafood. Be sure to allow to stand for several hours, after mixing, to blend flavors. Or make the night before using and refrigerate in a covered container.

Like your hot chocolate rich? Use cream for part of the milk.

Grated Parmesan cheese and minced chives are both delicious added to potatoes hashed in cream.

Puree cooked lentils for a soup or leave them whole. Serve the soup with thin rounds of frankfurter browned in a little butter.

This may sound like an old wives' tale. But the tops of such vegetables as carrots and beets will draw some nutrients out of the vegetables if left on. So cut off the tops before washing and storing vegetables. A one-inch stem may be left, though.

Home freezers may save on the grocery bills but can push up the electric bill if they don't operate properly. A dirty condenser, for example, causes a freezer to run as much as 22 out of 24 hours.

Ever roll pieces of chicken that are to be fried in cornmeal seasoned with salt and pepper?

Saute strips of green pepper in olive oil with a clove of garlic and serve with veal.

To test a steak for doneness, insert the tip of a sharp knife into the meat close to the bone; pull the meat back and look at its color.

Add thyme to the water in which you simmer spareribs before broiling them.

Tiny pickled onions are good added to cream cheese for a cracker spread. Chop the onions before adding.

For kitchen chemists: Baking powder is made of baking soda and cornstarch plus an acid ingredient.

Ever add finely diced cooked drained celery to scalloped oysters? The vegetable adds delightful flavor.

JERSEY IN NEW DESIGNS FOR SPRING

It Appears in Prints and Plain

Looking forward to spring are these designs from resort to spring collections. White wool jersey is the fabric for (left) a suit with elegant cut. This is by Monte-Sano and Pruzan. Jacket curves gently in at the waistline for easy fit. Collar and waistline have identical fringed and knotted ties. Softy-draped dress in rayon mat jersey (center) is by Harvey Berin. It has draped bodice, wide skirt and is worn with its own cropped cardigan that has floral motif cut and applied by hand. Cotton knit jersey dress (right) by Claire McCardell is belted, has straight-hanging back and high, rounded neckline. All of the designs shown here are in Jasco jersey, a fabric that drapes well.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Jersey is a fabric that figures prominently in the spring collections of this country's best designers.

This year it's shown in whisper weights right on through to the heavier wool blends that are just right for coats, ensembles and some suits.

BY GAILE DUGAS

It takes on new textures, brilliant colors and even appears in striking prints. It has been blended with rayon, cotton, wool and other fabrics for interesting high fashion effects. The new jerseys are equally good for the soft drapery of an afternoon or late-day dress and for the crisp look and subtle lines of the spring suit.

Jersey prints, becoming important to fashion this spring, come in the form of dots, checks, small plaid and tiny floral prints. These floral prints appear in spring collections in zephyr weight textures. And they're used by many designers for the softly draped overblouse.

Spring shades in jersey include beige, gold, white, brilliant blues, navy and black.

Business Changes In Jerseyville Announced

JERSEYVILLE—A change in partnership in two Jerseyville business firms became effective this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Belermann have sold their interest in the Jersey County Motor Co. to the heirs of the late Joseph Rittler, partners in the business. The transaction includes the building at 217 North State street in which the company is located.

The name Jersey County Motor Co. will be retained by the new owners. The firm has the local agency for the Dodge and Plymouth automobiles and Massey-Harris tractors.

Belermann has purchased a business in Bunker Hill, Ill., and his family is moving there.

Announcement was also made this week of the sale by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde S. Metcalf of Edwardsville, of their one-third interest in the Jersey Theatre in Jerseyville. Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Horn of Jerseyville, who are already partners in the concern, Horn's uncle, Fred Ballard of Jerseyville, also has a one-third interest in the business.

Horn has been manager of the theatre since Jan. 17, 1939, when the partnership was formed and will continue active management.

Algerian War Overflows to Paris

Parisians Shun the North African Quarter Near Place Pigalle

ALGERIAN DEMONSTRATORS in Paris stage a protest march on French National Assembly.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS—(NEA)—Terrorism and gang warfare are darkening the City of Light as the outcome of the Algerian war, which the French have been fighting in Algeria for the last 30 months, and Parisians are getting alarmed. Of the 400,000 Algerians registered in France, around 130,000 live in the capital and its immediate "zones" and suburbs.

Soon after the trouble started in Algeria the rival nationalist movements, the F.L.N. (Front de Liberation National) and the M.N.A. (Movement National Algerien) started taking the law in their own hands in France.

Scarcely a week has gone by without some Algerian being shot in broad daylight by one of his countrymen or executed in the cellar of either one of the terrorist headquarters after hours of grilling and torture. The first week of November there were 19 killed and 20 wounded in the department of the Seine alone, not counting shootings in Lyons, Lille and other industrial provincial towns.

In the near-slum district known as the "Goutte d'Or" (Drop of Gold) in Northeast Paris is the "medina" or native quarter where today few Parisians care to loiter. Six thousand Algerians live here, and every weekend 25,000 more North Africans come in from the outskirts of the city. It is the market place, the meeting place and the scene of bloody battles.

The Paris "medina" (which starts some two blocks away from the Place Pigalle) dates back to 1900.

Nearly half a century later the occupation and the liberation of Paris speeds up the integration of Arabs, especially of Algerians, who are French citizens.

While the majority were hired by the various industries in and around Paris, they also became very active in the black market. The "sidis," as the Parisians call them, sold American cigarettes, small arms and other army supplies, which they acquired illicitly, as well as the traditional rugs, crudely-made native leather goods and baubles. They also peddled drugs.

Their favorite hunting grounds have always been the cafes on the Left Bank and Montmartre. Today the 45,000 French residents and shopkeepers of the Goutte d'Or sections are slowly but surely being squeezed out by the North Africans.

There is nothing picturesque or exotic about the Paris "medina." The streets are poor and gray and living conditions grim. Over 500 Moslems occupy small lodgings. These are the "shekka." The poorer ones pay an average of $8 a month for filthy, bare hotel rooms which they have to share with three or four, sometimes more compatriots. Sanitation is non-existent.

Some 60 out of 100 of these miserable "hotels" are Arab-owned. There are also Arab squatters in the area once occupied by the Paris rag-pickers who at one time were the main suppliers of the Flea Market.

Few bring their families across the Mediterranean. Police records show that around 400 Frenchwomen have "set up housekeeping" with non-Europeans in the Goutte d'Or.

Naturally, prostitution exists. Contrary to the law on prostitution passed in 1946 which closed all "houses of illusion" in Paris, these women are housed in brothels reserved for them.

The moment you set foot in one of these miserable streets of the "medina" you find yourself transported into another, completely non-European world. By nightfall they are a swarm of Arabs buying or selling anything from a tattered overcoat or a pair of pants to packets of "kif" (drugs). They also act as fences for small-time thieves.

There are, of course, periodical police raids in the "medina" but the enforcement of law is made difficult by the language barrier. Let alone speak the various North African dialects of the pidgin French the Arabs pick up. This is perhaps one of the reasons why today the Parisian underworld, once the bailiwick of Corsicans, is ruled by North Africans.

'Talking Books' Find Popularity With Blind

Among services to the blind provided by the Illinois Department of Public Welfare are "talking books." Due to the increasing longevity of life and the percentage of aged persons without vision, these talking books are becoming one of the most popular of all services available to the blind.

Talking book records, also the property of the Library of Congress, are circulated in Illinois from the Chicago Public Library and Illinois Braille and Sight Saving School in Jacksonville. The school library loans talking book records, braille books and magazines to adult readers in the southern half of Illinois and nearby Iowa. Talking books may be mailed without charge.

Dr. Otto L. Bettag, state welfare director, said that 2,331 talking book machines have been placed in the homes of blind persons in Illinois.

Persons who lose their sight in later life find it extremely difficult to learn braille—a system of raised dots on special paper which requires particularly sensitive fingers to master and use for reading. Accordingly, most older people prefer talking book machines and records.

A talking book machine is actually a special record player which utilizes long-playing records, called "talking books"—because they bring to blind persons reproductions of current magazines, literature and textbooks narrated by well known actors and authors.

Distributed in Illinois by the Department of Public Welfare through its seven regional offices, all talking book machines are owned by the U. S. Library of Congress. They are loaned free to any person so visually handicapped he cannot read ordinary print. He cannot read ordinary print. He cannot read ordinary print. He cannot read ordinary print.

placed only where needed, a medical certificate of blindness is required before a machine may be placed in an applicant's home.

Now available on talking book records are 2,300 different titles. The most popular records have always been those which contain stories from the Bible.

Fire Truck For Eldred Will Be Delivered Jan. 8

CARROLLTON — F. L. Imus, the chairman of the trustees of the Carrollton Fire Protection District, announced Friday that the third and last fire truck to be used in the district will arrive January 8 and will be tested by the Illinois Inspection Bureau at the lake at the Country Club in Jerseyville. After the truck passes tests it will be taken to Eldred and housed in the newly remodeled fire house there.

As the new truck undergoes tests the three standby trucks for Carrollton, Kane and Eldred will also be tested. When the tests are completed each of the three named towns will have two fire trucks available for use any place within the district where needed.

The new truck which arrives January 8 is a GMC chassis and the body and equipment was purchased from the Towers Fire Fighting Equipment Company of Freeburg, Ill. It is a 50 gallon pumper and is equipped for using both water and chemicals.

The Boston Post Road is so called because originally the United States mail was carried over it.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—An astonished Wall Street Saturday found itself with the biggest weekly advance in the stock market for more than a year.

The rise added an estimated $5.43, or 0.93 percent, to the value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the average in the Associated Press averages.

The AP 90-stock average climbed $4.73 to $159.01, its best rise since the week ended Dec. 8, 1956 when the market made a series of good daily advances based on technical factors and a better outlook in the mid-East.

None of the more talkative Wall Street analysts dared to predict such New Year's rally as they witnessed this week. Before it started the air was full of recs on talk and of extremely cautious prognostications about the stock market's probable career in 1957.

Some reinvestment demand was looked for, and for that reason, a bit of a bulge in prices, but nothing extraordinary. As things turned out, the reinvestment demand was easier enough to fill prices upward much more than anticipated.

Prices of many blue chips had been hammered down to extremely low levels and buyers found these prices attractive.

Reports from Washington showed in plain terms that the government was prepared to do some pump-priming to cure the business recession. The prospects were for bigger spending on defense and easier credit for new houses.

Some good gains were made including General Dynamics up 3 1/2, El Paso Natural Gas up 2 1/2, and U.S. Steel up 2 1/2.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were:

Pennsylvania Railroad, up 1 1/2 at 124, on 171,000 shares; General Motors, up 2 1/2 at 36 1/2; Bethlehem Steel, up 2 1/2 at 38 1/2; Texas Gulf Sulphur, up 1 1/2 at 16 1/2; and Standard Oil (New Jersey), up 1 1/2 at 50.

Sen. Johnson Plays Down Criticism Of President

Democratic policy — and he is powerful in that field — Johnson has made it clear he wants his party to build what he calls a constructive record. His idea is to get the Democrats credit for moving missile production forward without dwelling on the mistakes that may have been made in this field in the past by the administration and previous Democratic administrations.

In line with this, Johnson is not enthusiastic about suggestions from some of his party colleagues that the Preparedness subcommittee call former Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson as a witness.

Wilson said recently he would have liked to spend more money in the development and research field but that Eisenhower held down on the funds because he sensed economy demands in Congress.

for new criticism Saturday. Mortimer Smith, executive secretary of the Council of Basic Education, said it "fails to meet the real problem."

"If we had not fallen for soft testing, soft guidance, soft language requirements, soft teaching preparation, soft curricula, and soft standards of performance, we would not now be talking about cash programs and cash programs in education," Smith said.

Two Democratic congressional leaders from Alabama, Sen. Hill and Rep. Elliott, announced they will introduce an educational aid program that exceeds the administration's proposal.

They said the bill they are drafting would provide for approximately 40,000 college scholarships a year, 75 per cent of them earmarked for sciences, engineering, mathematics and languages. The Eisenhower program would authorize 19,000 college scholarships annually for four years.

RULE NO ENGLISHMAN HAS RIGHT TO BEAT WIFE

LONDON (AP)—A London court ruled once and for all Saturday that no Englishman has the right to beat his wife. Herbert Bartlett, 48, was sentenced to jail after declaring his belief in a man's prerogative to "chastise" his better half.

"An utterly contemptible theory," snapped Magistrate Harold Sturge. "It belongs to the jungle of pre-civilization."

Bartlett specifically was accused of injuring his wife by tossing a dinner plate at her. He was told the length of his sentence would be announced next week.

GRAIN FUTURES END HIGHER

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain futures ended higher this week for the first time since early December. A liquidating phase which featured trading the previous two weeks appeared to have run its course for the time being and all futures advanced on the board of trade as buying power reappeared.

Demand for wheat improved, especially for the March contract which led other deliveries in gains. Strength in the bread grains was reflected in other grains and soybeans.

Wheat finished the week 3 to 3 1/2 cents a bushel higher than Friday a week ago. Corn was up 1/4 to 1/2 cents, oats advanced 1/4 to 1/2 cents, rye was 3/4 to 4 cents higher and soybeans ended 3 to 4 1/2 cents up. Lard futures finished 10 cents lower to 10 cents higher per hundred pounds.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—Hog prices finished mostly lower this week with barrows and gilts down 50 to 75 cents. Sows closed mostly steady.

Receipts of 17,672 on Thursday were the largest for any day since Jan. 16, 1956, and helped depress prices. On Friday, however, receipts total only 4,000, smallest since Aug. 30, 1957, and this forced a partial recovery from the week's low levels.

Top price of the week was $23.00, paid on Tuesday and Friday.

In the cattle market, choice prime steers finished steady but steers grading good and below were off 25 to 75 cents. Choice and prime heifers ended steady to 25 cents higher and other classes weak to 50 cents lower. Cows closed 25 to 50 lower and bulls and vealers fully steady.

Top steer price of the week was $30.75, highest since November, 1956.

Slaughter lambs finished 50 to 75 cents higher in an active trade, and slaughter ewes advanced 75 cents to $1.00. Top price for the week was $24.50, highest for lambs since September, 1957.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—Following is a summary of the week's hog, cattle and sheep market:

Saleable hogs 1,000: No. 2 and 3 grades sold 18.75-19.25; some more uniform No. 1 to 3 grade 19.00-22.00 lbs 19.50-19.75; No. 2 and 3 23.00-27.00 lb weights were generally 18.00-19.00; some 28.00-32.00 lb butchers sold from 17.00-18.00; larger lots of mixed grades 37.50-50 lb sows 14.75-16.00; note under 360 lbs sold up to 16.50.

Brood Of Chicks In Drug Carton Mystifies Group

CHICAGO (AP)—A brood of baby chicks delivered in a box usually holding drugs really set the Anti-Cruelty Society staff to clucking Saturday.

An unidentified man left the box with a society receptionist who thought it contained drugs because it bore a label from the Microbiological Associates, Inc. of Washington, D. C.

But inside were 24 chicks in various stages of hatching. The staff took it in stride until someone exclaimed:

"Gosh! Do you suppose they've been inoculated with a disease germ. Have we been exposed to something?"

A hasty check—with the aid of Air Express—revealed that the Washington firm hadn't sent any chicks to anybody. But, they said, a similar box was delivered to the Illinois Public Health Department in Chicago.

The health agency solved the mystery—or at least part of it. A spokesman said the department had some eggs and was going to destroy them when some one in the office asked to give them to a friend.

So the eggs were put in the box. But the box was no clue as to how the crate ended up at the society.

Anyhow, the staff breathed a sigh of relief and then Director J. J. Shaffer said chicks would be given to some farmers.

HILLARY RELAXES AFTER TREK TO POLE

Zealanders. The Americans led the party to a spot encircled by oil drums and computed to be the geographic bottom of the world. Hillary looked briefly at the circle but did not step into it.

The New Zealanders then were taken to the station mess hall for their first hot meal in several days—navy beans and hot dogs.

Scott Base is named for British Navy Capt. Robert F. Scott, the leader of the last expedition to travel overland to the pole. Scott got there Jan. 18, 1912, but died on the return trip. The first explorer to reach the pole was Norway's Roald Amundsen, who won the race with Scott on Dec. 14, 1911. Although 122 persons have gone to the pole by air, Hillary and his party were the first since Scott to make it overland.

In London, a spokesman at the headquarters of the British Commonwealth Antarctic Expedition contrasted the purposes of Hillary and Fuchs.

Fuchs is making scientific observations in connection with the International Geophysical Year.

"Hillary placed the emphasis on getting places and determining the best way to get through," the spokesman said. "He was not so preoccupied with the scientific observations which were, after all the purpose of the enterprise."

The Rhode Island red chicken was named the state bird of Rhode Island in 1964.

SCOTT COUPLE WED

MR. AND MRS. CARL HARDWICK
WINCHESTER — Miss Leona Brown and Carl Hardwick were united in marriage Saturday, Dec. 28 at the home of Rev. F. V. Wright. Rev. Wright performed the double ring ceremony with Mr. and Mrs. Millard McGlasson as the attendants for the couple.

The bride is the daughter of M. H. Brown, Winchester, and Mr. Hardwick is the son of Mrs. Floyd Scoggins and the late Carl Hardwick of Carrollton.

For her wedding the bride wore a beige dress fashioned on princess lines and trimmed in fur. Her accessories were black and her corsage was of yellow mums. Mrs. McGlasson, sister of the bride, wore a brown faille print dress, black accessories and a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Hardwick is employed at the General Telephone Company in Carrollton and Mr. Hardwick is employed at the Western Cartridge Company in Alton. At present they plan to live with Mr. Brown in Winchester.

Insurance Claims For Unemployed Show Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department reported Saturday claims for unemployment insurance rose to a record $50,995 in the week ending Dec. 28.

The department said the increase of 137,400 in claims followed "the usual year-end pattern but was substantially larger" than in the corresponding week of 1956 when claims went up 50,000 to 338,970.

It said the increase was due to "heavier than usual post-Christmas layoffs in trade, widespread temporary plant shutdowns for inventory taking, seasonal curtailments in food processing, apparel and construction, temporary layoffs in automobile plants and cutbacks in primary and fabricated metals and machinery plants."

CANADA HAILS

MACMILLAN NO-WAR PACT PROPOSAL

OTTAWA (AP)—British Prime Minister Macmillan's proposal Saturday for a no-war pact between Russia and the Western Powers was welcomed here as opening new possibilities for negotiation.

"Prime Minister Macmillan's statement," said Acting Foreign Secretary David Fulton, "opens up interesting and refreshing possibilities for negotiations which is Canada's desire to see brought about."

The Canadian minister particularly welcomed Macmillan's reference to Britain's desire to secure agreement through which the Soviet Union and the Western world may live in peace.

Storm Sweeps Into New Mexico, Texas Panhandle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A storm swept into New Mexico and the Texas panhandle Saturday night, covering the area with heavy snow, sleet, rain and fog. Snow piled up eight inches deep between Muleshoe and Morton along the western edge of the panhandle near the New Mexico line.

Snow plows battled to keep open highways as the snow fell up traffic and caused numerous accidents.

A blanket of cold clung to the East Saturday.

Despite widespread sunshine, temperatures in the daytime ranged from the 30s in Georgia to the teens farther north and to a few degrees above zero at Burlington, Vt., and Caribou, Maine.

New York State had its coldest weather in a year. Low readings early in the day included—24 at Old Forge and Tendara in the Adirondacks, -17 at Boonville, -16 at Lowville, -8 at Olean and Utica, and zero at Albany.

The central states also had a frigid morning but the cold began to abate. Thermometers registered lows of -10 at Rockford, Ill., and Lone Rock, Wis., -6 at Grand Rapids, Mich., and Madison, Wis., and -1 at Milwaukee.

One Man Dead, One Missing In Hotel Fire

BERWICK, Pa. (AP)—A million-dollar fire wrecked a hotel and seven other buildings in the heart of Berwick early Saturday morning, killing at least one man. A second was missing.

Three hotel residents and eight firemen were injured or treated for smoke inhalation.

Killed in a jump from a third floor window of the Morton House, where the roaring blaze was believed to have started in the bar, was Harris Brown, 61, an employee of the American Car and Foundry Co. plant here.

Brown died of a crushed chest and smoke inhalation.

Missing was another hotel resident identified as Frank Fuller, 63.

Firemen battled the thick smoke and mushrooming flames for three hours in sub-freezing temperatures that froze the water shortly after it was sprayed from the hoses.

MACMILLAN PROPOSES NONAGGRESSION PACT WITH COMMUNISTS

"They often speak fair words. They spoke many fair and friendly words to us on New Year's Day. Are these professions of respect and friendship really genuine? Or are they saying a number of things they think we would like to hear in order to weaken our resolve?"

Not Sure Of Truth
"We cannot yet be sure of the truth. And it is a terrible responsibility for any government to have to choose to act upon this interpretation, or that without being absolutely certain."

Under these circumstances, he said, the West has no choice but to maintain unity and strength while seeking to resolve differences with Russia by negotiation and conciliation.

"It is no good taking away one fear and creating another," he said. "We must carry with us the lessons of the past. We have at least gained this—we have such an even balance of power as makes war almost impossible. Do not let us lose this advantage."

Macmillan, who leaves Tuesday on a six-week tour of five Commonwealth nations, said the West must continue to try to reach agreement with Russia on disarmament.

Must Not Give Up
"We mustn't give up; we must try again. We must reach an agreement about the tests of nuclear weapons, their manufacture, their use and their numbers. We must also deal with what are called conventional arms."

Macmillan declared Britain always will be ready to use new ideas and new methods of resolving the disarmament deadlock so long as they provide for an effective system of inspection and control.

The conciliatory nature of the prime minister's speech was believed to reflect the tone of a letter he has already drafted to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

The letter, replying to a message from Bulganin Dec. 12, will be discussed along with similar notes from a dozen other Western governments at a meeting of the NATO Council in Paris Wednesday.

It will be whipped into final shape and dispatched to Moscow after Macmillan's departure on a tour of India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Australia and New Zealand.

All-Stars Wallop Tucson Cowboys In Optimist Bowl

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The College All-Stars, scoring on their first offensive play, crushed the Tucson Cowboy professional team 56-28 Saturday in the first Optimist Bowl football game.

Callins Hagler of Iowa, named the outstanding offensive back of the game, ran 80 yards for a touchdown in the All-Stars' first play from scrimmage. From then on the All-Stars had the game in the bag.

Referee's Vote Gives Rosi Split Decision Friday

NEW YORK (AP)—By the margin of one point on the scorecard of Referee Teddy Martin, Paolo Rosi today owns a split decision over Johnny Busso in a battle of lightweight contenders.

Although New York scores fights by rounds, it permits officials to resort to a four-point system in case the rounds come out even. The winner of a round gets from one to four points and the loser none.

Martin gave Rosi two points for his third-round effort against Busso Friday night at Madison Square Garden and voted it even in rounds 5-5. Each round winner received only one point with the exception of Rosi in the third when he shook up his heavier opponent.

Judge Joe Agnello voted for Rosi 6-4 and Judge Jack Gordon gave Busso a 5-4-1 winner. The AP card had Busso on top 6-4.

Rosi complained about the weight after the fight. He gave away 55 pounds to Busso, who weighed 141 to Rosi's 135 pounds. Rosi's handlers claimed they had a private agreement at 138 pounds although the official contracts called for 140, give or take a pound.

"When I'm supposed to fight a lightweight, I want to fight a lightweight, not a 140-pounder," complained Rosi, a balding 29-year-old Italian who now lives in New York's Bronx.

Busso, a 23-year-old New Yorker, showed a solid jab that calmed down Rosi when he swarmed to the attack, flinging punches wildly. However, Rosi had all the better of it when they traded freely in the third, fifth and sixth. Each time it was Busso who broke off the exchange and held right to Rosi's right hand.

The fight was difficult to judge for neither was able to put on any sustained attack.

Basketball coach Eugene Lambert of Alabama played football, tennis and basketball at Arkansas. He also competed on the track team.

Harrison Marches To Front Of Los Angeles Open By Two Strokes

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dutch Harrison marched to the front of the golfers' parade Saturday and passed the midway mark of the $35,000 Los Angeles Open with a two-stroke lead.

The 47-year-old veteran from St. Louis shot a one-under par 70 to go with his first round score of 68 for 36-hole total of 138.

Harrison got in his round before stiff winds set in late in the afternoon and sent scores up a stroke or two.

Starting his 27th year as a golf pro, Harrison toured the Rancho Golf Club course, with its 7,170 yards and par 36-35-71, in 35-34.

When play resumes for the third round Sunday, Harrison will have only a few big name-challengers close to him.

Smiley Quick, a Los Angeles veteran of 48 who led the procession Friday with a 67, fell back to 73 and was deadlocked in second place at 140 with four lesser lights.

They are Stan Dudas of Philadelphia, with 68-72; Charles Sifford, Philadelphia, 73-67; Gay Brewer, Jr., Cincinnati, 71-69, and Tommy Jacobs of Whittier, Calif., whose eagle three on the ninth hole put him into the running.

At 141 were such seasoned players as Bo Winger of Odessa, Tex., a victim of the late wind, with a 72; Frank Stranahan, To-

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Illinois turned back several Wisconsin threats Saturday night before downing the Badgers, 64-59, as both teams opened their Big Ten basketball schedule.

In defeating the Badgers, the Illini won their seventh game in eight games this season.

Don Ohi hit seventeen points for the Illini in the first half and added four after the intermission as he took individual scoring honors. Walter Holt scored 16 points for Wisconsin.

Illinois held Bob Litzow, Wisconsin's leading scorer, to two field goals and a free throw.

The Illini quickly overcame a 4-0 Wisconsin lead as the game opened and grabbed a 19-9 advantage with only nine minutes gone. Wisconsin began pressing and went ahead 28-27 on a layup by Holt two minutes before the intermission. However, Ohi dumped in a jump shot and two free throws as Illinois took a 31-29 halftime lead.

Wisconsin opened the second half by tying the score 31-31, but soon fell behind and never got closer than three points during the rest of the action.

Wisconsin hit 47 of 23 free throws and did some fine rebounding in an attempt to overcome Illinois' field goal accuracy. The Illini made 42 per cent of their shots from the floor, while the Badgers hit on 30 per cent.

The loss left Wisconsin with a record of five victories and four losses this season.

FRICK, GILES WILL REPRESENT BASEBALL AT MILWAUKEE FEED

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Commissioner Ford Frick and President Warren Giles of the National League will represent baseball officials at the fifth annual Diamond Dinner of the Milwaukee Chapter, Baseball Writers Assn. of America, here Jan. 30.

Highlight of the banquet will be the awarding of special plaques to five members of the Milwaukee Braves. They are Hank Aaron, most valuable player; Bob Hazle, outstanding rookie; General Manager John Quinn and Manager Fred Haney, special contribution to Milwaukee baseball; and Lew Burdette, 1937 World Series hero.

TARGET PRACTICE

MONTCLAIR, N. J. (AP)—Willard Simmons walked into police headquarters several days ago with an arrow. He said it had been shot through his basement window.

Friday night he came back with another arrow that had broken a second window. But this one had two dollars wrapped around it, apparently to pay for the damage, he said.

Under the NCAA three-year rule, freshmen aren't eligible to play in the championships and neither are seniors who competed as freshmen. The result has been that teams who won conference championships using such players often went into the national championships without their star performers.

Under the new ruling, teams from these conferences won't be eligible automatically but they can be selected as "at large" entries if they conform to the eligibility standards.

Marquette Nips Loyola Of Chicago

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Marquette broke out of the shooting doldrums in the second half Saturday night and turned back Loyola of Chicago 64-61 after trailing through most of the basketball game at the Milwaukee Arena before 1,200 fans.

Loras Decisions Illinois Tech

CHICAGO (AP)—Jack Fiasco poured in 29 points Saturday night in leading Loras College to an 80-73 basketball victory over Illinois Tech.

Loras held a 42-40 halftime lead but Tech managed to tie the score six times in the second half. However, the home team never could force into a big lead.

Mike Wayne and John Olin, both freshmen, were high for IIT with 22 points each.

MESSY BOOKKEEPERS

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—For the record, the Hickman-Pulmon, Mo. high school basketball score Friday night was 80-54.

The sports editor on the Fulton Sun-Gazette questioned that score Saturday, saying his score book showed 55 points for Fulton.

"Our reporter says five different sources had five different scores after game, and following lengthy discussion official scorer settled on 80-54 and we used that one."

Kansas City's Athletics led the American League in home runs with 156 in 1937 but the team's hitting average was .244.

Bandit Takes Cash At Gunpoint, Locks Couple In Closet

A lone bandit, wearing a stocking mask and wielding a snub-nosed revolver, seized nearly $400, receipts of the Lanphier-Pana basketball game Friday night, at Lanphier High school in Springfield and fled. Police are still looking for the bandit, described as being about 6 feet tall, weighing about 200 pounds and wearing a tan raincoat.

About 9:10 p.m. Norman Patton, cashier, and his assistant, Miss Joyce Petschauer, left the gymnasium box office to take the receipts to an office on the north side of the school building. As they entered, they were accosted by the bandit who seized the cash box and forced the pair into a storage closet.

Cries for help by Patton and Miss Petschauer were heard by a student who released the couple and Police officers said they believed the bandit entered the office by forcing the door open with a knife blade and then waited for Patton and Miss Petschauer to bring the receipts there.

NCAA Tightens Eligibility Rules For Two Tournaments

By HUGH FULLERTON

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The National Collegiate AA executive committee Saturday tightened eligibility rules for two of its championship tournaments and set in motion machinery to establish a new championship—in soccer.

Opening a series of committee meetings preliminary to the start of the 32nd NCAA convention Monday, the executive committee voted that after this season only conferences which observe the freshman rule will be eligible automatically to compete in the NCAA university division basketball tournament and the NCAA baseball championship.

While the executive committee was reaching these decisions, college baseball coaches opened their general meeting and immediately got into a hassle over proposed restrictions governing summer competition.

The American Assn. of Baseball Coaches discussed proposals for a "on campus" summer baseball program and for rules limiting the maximum payment and the amount of competition permitted in off-campus leagues.

The new NCAA ruling on eligibility on basketball and baseball tournaments will go into effect Sept. 1, 1938. At present the champions of 16 conferences in basketball and 12 in baseball are automatically eligible for NCAA tournaments. These include the Southern and Missouri Valley conferences, which now permit freshmen to play on varsity teams.

Under the NCAA three-year rule, freshmen aren't eligible to play in the championships and neither are seniors who competed as freshmen. The result has been that teams who won conference championships using such players often went into the national championships without their star performers.

Under the new ruling, teams from these conferences won't be eligible automatically but they can be selected as "at large" entries if they conform to the eligibility standards.

Chapin CWF Holds Meeting With Mrs. Detmer

The December meeting of the Women's Fellowship of the Chapin Christian church met Friday at the home of Mrs. Lina Detmer.

Christmas music was played by Ruth Hutchens; "Christ's Church And The Race" was discussed by Lina Detmer. A short playlet was given by Barbara White, Ruth Hutchens, Ann Hynes and Adelaide Brookhouse, followed by the offering and the offering prayer.

The group then sang "It Came Upon The Midnight Clear". Adella Hamilton gave the secretary's report, and Ruth Hutchens gave the treasurer's report showing a Woman's Day offering of $92.56.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses following the benediction.

HOCKEY STAR AT DENVER

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—George Konik, 210-pound hockey defenseman who formerly starred for the Flin Flon, Man., Bombers, has enrolled at the University of Denver.

Konik is 30 years old and a native of Flin Flon. He scored 42 goals last season when Flin Flon won the Canadian Junior championship.

MOOSE TREES HUNTER

SCHREIBER, Ont. (AP)—Trainman Walter Wainikka was hunting for partridge, but a moose also was on the trail. Wainikka was freed for three hours or until the moose sought other quarry.

CUSTOMER'S CHOICE

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (AP)—City Council, planning a new hockey rink, is asking taxpayers to clip newspaper coupons on which they can state their preference for capacity—3,000, 4,000 or 5,000 seats.

Willing Workers Meet At Obert Home In Chapin

The Willing Workers class of the Chapin Christian church met at the home of Mrs. Edna Obert Thursday, Jan. 2. The meeting opened with a hymn, "Blessed Assurance", a prayer by Lina Detmer and scripture by Adella Hamilton.

Roll call was a favorite Christmas present. A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. Morris thanking each member for the gifts and cards and the class for the potluck.

A bake sale will be held Saturday morning, Jan. 25, at Onken's Store. Each member is expected to bring something for the sale.

After the benediction, Irene Hamilton, the program leader, Ruth Hutchens and Beulah McDonald gave readings. The program leader then gave a prayer entitled "Lead Us Father."

Mrs. Mabel Bobbitt was the winner of a Bible contest. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

11 STATES GET $12 MILLION FROM TROTTERS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Eleven states received $42,694,077 from pari-mutuel wagering at harness tracks in 1937, reports The United States Trotting Assn.

New York bettors led by contributing $30,808,880 to its state. Illinois realized $2,686,360 and California $2,167,860. California, Michigan and Kentucky were the only states showing a decrease in harness revenue.

GRASS LOOKS GREENER

LAWTON, Okla. (AP)—Sam Lyle, assistant football coach at the University of Oklahoma, made this note on Sooner recruiting while visiting here:

"Any boy we get from Texas automatically becomes one of the top players in the state. In the past, we have recruited Texas boys who weren't even contacted by Southwest Conference schools. But the minute they get wind that he's coming to Oklahoma, the kid becomes a phenom overnight and we are accused of unethical recruiting practices."

OLE MISS LEADS AGAIN

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP)—With a per game average of 35.6 yards the 1937 Ole Miss football team led the Southeastern Conference in total offense for the sixth time since 1948. Mississippi had an 8-1-1 record.

Michigan Gains 73-65 Decision Over Iowa In Conference Tilt

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Experience and balanced scoring paid off for Michigan Saturday night in a 73-65 conquest of Iowa in their Big Ten basketball opener. Four of the Wolverines rained in points in double figures.

Michigan's seasoned team, regarded as a trouble-maker in the conference championship race, didn't look like it would cause the Hawkeyes too much trouble in the first half. After a spurt at the start the Wolverines later ran into a scoring famine for six minutes and trailed 36-32 at the intermission.

But they tied it up within three minutes of the second half and Michigan guard George Lee hit for five straight points to put the Wolverines 43-40 and forward M. C. Burton, who finished with a high of 21 points, aided by center Pete Tilton, paced Michigan in the final drive.

Iowa fell apart when the Hawk's top scorer, Dave Gunther, fouled out with about six minutes left. Previously the Wolverines resorted to set shots from the outside to snarl the Hawks' defense and they broke the game open by driving in for shots under the basket.

Michigan didn't find the range until the second half when they made 17 of 37 tries at the basket after a 250 shooting percentage in the first half. In addition to Burton, Tilton, and Lee, Jack Lew- is hit in double figures.

Gunter was high for Iowa with 18 points. Hawkeye sophomore Nolden Gentry snared 23 of Iowa's 45 rebounds. Michigan got 55 rebounds.

Some Of Nation's Top Bowlers In All-Star Tourney

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—It will be bowling balls instead of cannon balls in a noisy bombardment that starts Friday at the Minnesota National Guard Armory here.

Most of the nation's blue ribbon bowlers will compete for cash prizes totaling $36,225, including a hefty $5,000 for the men's champion, in the annual All-Star Bowling Proprietors' Assn. Tournament.

Transplanted here from Chicago for the first time in its 17-year history as the first major sports event of Minnesota's biennial year, the tournament will bring together 280 top men and women bowlers from 32 states and Hawaii.

The defending champions are Don Carter of St. Louis, only man to win the title three times, and Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., who has won the women's championship six times.

Starting with a preliminary event Friday, the tournament runs through Sunday, Jan. 19, using 24 lanes instead of the 16 that have been used heretofore.

Eliminations that began last August have trimmed the men's field to 192, including Carter and 1935-36 champion Bill Lillard of Chicago, who are automatically seeded into the finals.

Among the top-rated contenders are Johnny King of Chicago, Lou Campi of Dumont, N.J., Hank Paragalli of Paterson, N.J., Jack Wilman of Berkeley, Ill., Hank Lauman of Detroit, Tom Hennesbank of Detroit, Tom Hennesbank and Steve Nagy of St. Louis, and a swarm of other ranking bowlers.

Mrs. Ladewig is expected to get her strongest competition from Olga Gloor of Chicago, Bobbie Shaler of Culver City, Calif., and Judy Seki of Los Angeles.

Grade School Tourney Opens At Jerseyville

JERSEYVILLE — The annual Jerseyville Grade School Invitational Tournament will get underway at the local East Elementary school gymnasium Monday evening at 6:45 o'clock when the Hillsboro quintet takes the floor against the Wood River five.

The second game of the initial evening of the tournament will begin at eight o'clock and in this event the Bunker Hill team will oppose the five from Brighton.

The winners of the two games Monday evening will tangle in a game to open the evening of Jan. 9 at 6:45 o'clock.

The second evening of the tournament will find Litchfield playing Shipman in the opening assignment at 6:45 p.m. This game will be followed at eight o'clock by the Jerseyville vs. Grafton tilt.

The winners of Tuesday night's games will clash in the second game Jan. 9 at eight o'clock.

The winners of the two games of Thursday evening's play will fight it out for the championship Saturday evening at eight o'clock.

The losers of Thursday evening's games will battle for third place in the Saturday evening preliminary at 6:45 o'clock.

Questions, Answers On 'Bidding In' Farms

Q Who is eligible to bid?
A Anyone who owns or controls the operation of a farm.
Q When and where are bids accepted?
A January 2 through January 31, 1958, at the A. S. C. Office in the county in which the farm is located.
Q What does "whole farm" mean?
A All the land in one ownership tract or one farm operation tract.
Q Do I place a bid on each acre of the "Whole Farm"?
A Not unless all the land is "eligible" for the program.
Q What land is eligible?
A All land which is classified as CROPLAND. Also non-cropland from which a crop of hay or ensilage was harvested in 1956 or 1957.
Q What can I do with my land which is not included in the Contract?
A It can be managed in any way desired. EXCEPT NO CROPS CAN BE HARVESTED THEREFROM. The family garden is exempt from the harvesting restriction.
Q Can I pasture the land on my farm which is not included in the Contract?
A Yes.
Q Can I pasture my Conservation Reserve Area?
A No. Harvesting or pasturing the "Reserve Area" is PROHIBITED.
Q How long is the Contract?
A Either 5 YEARS or 10 YEARS — depending on the Conservation Practice you choose to establish.
Q How long is the Contract if I choose to use a grass cover?
A FIVE or TEN YEARS.
Q How long is the Contract if trees are planted?
A TEN YEARS.
Q Can I have part of my farm in Trees for 10 years and part in Grass for 5 years?
A NO. If the "Whole Farm" is accepted under the bid procedure and trees are planted on any part of the reserve area, the Contract for the "Whole Farm" must be for 10 YEARS.
Q What other practices can I establish on the area?
A A FARM POND or one of the "Wildlife" practices.
Q How long are these Contracts?
A A MINIMUM of 5 YEARS with a 10-YEAR OPTION in some cases.
Q If I place my "Whole Farm" in Conservation Reserve, can I get Cost-Share Assistance to establish Practices?
A YES.
Q How much assistance can I get?
A APPROXIMATELY 80% OF THE COST.
Q MUST I SHARE ANNUAL RENTAL PAYMENT WITH MY TENANT?
A YES.
Q What percentage of the payment should I give my Tenant?
A This should be decided by the LANDLORD and TENANT on the basis of the contribution each person makes in carrying out the Contract.
Q How do I arrive at a "Realistic Bid"?
A After considering all factors affecting your situation, decide what you will accept as annual rental for the eligible land on your farm.
Q Is there a maximum limit beyond which bids will not be accepted?
A That will be determined after bids have been opened.
Q Will my bid be related to the productivity of my farm?
A This will be one of the factors used to evaluate bids.
Q Who will decide which bids will be accepted?
A The ILLINOIS STATE A. S. C. COMMITTEE and REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.
Q Will the County A. S. C. Office know what I bid?
A NOT UNLESS THE BID IS ACCEPTED BY THE STATE COMMITTEE.
Q If my bid is rejected, will I have time to sign up for regular

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

GOOD NEWS FOR HOG PRODUCERS

Santa Claus brought hog producers a nice present—the news that hog production is not increasing rapidly. The 1957 fall pig crop, farrowed June through November, was only 2 per cent larger than that of a year before—that is barely enough to match the increase in population. Farmers intend to increase spring farrowings only 6 per cent.

The facts above were shown in the semiannual pig crop report released by the U.S.D.A. just before Christmas. The report was based on a survey of 149,000 farms in all parts of the country.

The estimate of the 1957 spring pig crop was revised to 52.6 million head, 1 per cent LESS than that of 1956. The number of spring pigs still on farms December 1 was estimated at only 13.5 million, 8 per cent LESS than one year before.

MARKET PROSPECTS. Weekly market supplies will not shrink so much as usual this winter. Farmers, especially those in the western half of the corn belt, have recently held back hogs to use wet corn. Furthermore, farrowings last June and July were about 10 per cent greater than they were the year before and hogs from those litters are now approaching market age. The feed situation will produce greater average slaughter weights. The supply prospect, plus increasing unemployment, may bring lower prices for hogs during this winter.

The bulk of the fall pig crop is farrowed in August and September. Farrowings in those months of 1957 were 3 per cent less than those of the year before. Hogs from these litters will be on the market in March and April. Average weights seem likely to be up at least enough to offset the reduction in numbers. Farrowings in October and November were about normal, and the same as in 1956. As usual, the smallest farrowings were in November, so market supplies will be small again in June and July.

Biggest uncertainty about the hog market next fall is consumer demand. If business activity picks up early in 1958, the indicated increase of 6 per cent in supplies of hogs can be sold at good prices. Even if unemployment increases, hog prices do not seem likely to sag to the low levels of two years ago.

Custom Sprayers To Meet Soon

URBANA — New insecticides and herbicides among the topics to be discussed at the 10th Illinois Custom Spray Operators' School. The school will be held in the Illinois Union on the University of Illinois campus Jan. 23-24.

H. B. Petty, extension entomologist, who is directing the school, invites all custom spray operators, agricultural chemical salesmen and other interested persons to attend.

Thursday's program, Jan. 23, will highlight weed control in sorghums, and corn and soybean crops, and their control. Other topics will include new herbicides and insecticides, control of Canada thistle and new developments in stored grain insect control.

Friday's program features effects on foxtail on corn and soybean yields, new control measures for Johnson grass and control of weeds in corn. Gravity flow for liquid fertilizer application, red top weevil research, reasons for failure of herbicide treatments, and the use of alfalfa seed treatments will also be discussed.

A University of Illinois livestock specialist says that 40 per cent of ground corn added to legume or oat silage at ensiling will provide all the corn needed in a fattening ration.

TO GIVE AWAY HEIFER

The Mark Twain Angus association has completed plans to award a registered Angus heifer to an outstanding boy or girl in the eleven counties of Missouri and Illinois, at the sale on Feb. 12 at Monroe City, Mo.

The heifer is an outstanding individual and from the Vinson & Evans Farm, Urso, Ill. The offspring of this heifer will carry the breeding of the C. C. McLean herd, which has recently produced the 1956 and 1957 International Grand Champion Bull.

All boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 18 are eligible to make application. They will be selected by a committee on their need and past record of achievement.

Applications are being distributed to the county agents, vocational agriculture teachers and Angus breeders within the area.

Agricultural Conservation Practices For 1958 Listed

The 1958 Agricultural Conservation program for Morgan County was discussed Friday when community ASC committees met at Farm Bureau hall.

The new handbook lists approved practices for this county and the maximum cost-share rate for each practice. The program runs through the year, but a formal request for assistance must be filed with the county committee before the practice is started.

Approved conservation practices include:

- Sod waterways—For smoothing, preparing seed bed, fertilizing, seeding, etc., 75¢ per 1,000 square feet. For moving earth with other than normal farm tillage implements, $1.00 to exceed 60 per cent of the cost.
- Standard terraces—$2.50 per 100 feet.
- Diversions—15¢ per cubic yard of earth moved, not to exceed 60 per cent of cost.
- Small structures—15¢ per cubic yard of earth moved; $25 per cubic yard for concrete.
- Farm ponds—For earth moved, 15¢ per cubic yard; concrete drop inlet, $30 per cubic yard of concrete; for trickle tube, $1.50 per foot.
- The outlets — $17.50 maximum per installation.
- Contour stripcropping — $2.50 per acre.
- Contour intertilled crops — $1.00 per acre.
- Pasture or meadow development — for seedbed preparation, seed and inoculation, $6.50 per acre; for limestone, $1.70 per ton; for rock phosphate, 40¢ per hundredweight; for superphosphate, 4¢ a pound; for potash 2¢ a pound. Soil tests required.
- Green manure seedings—$2 per acre.
- Liming farmland—$1.70 per ton; No. 2 limestone, $1.30 per ton.
- Rock phosphate on cropland, 20 to 40¢ per hundredweight, depending upon phosphoric acid content.
- Tree planting—15¢ per 1,000 trees.
- Tree or shrub planting to prevent wind or water erosion — $15 per 1,000 trees.
- Forest improvement — $7.50 per acre. Fencing to protect forest stands—$1 per rod for three barbed wire fence; $2 per rod for woven wire.
- Tile lines for waterways—$1.50 per rod.
- Erosion control structures and dams—$25 per cubic yard of concrete; 12¢ per cubic yard of earth moved; pipe, $1.50 per foot.
- Removal of brush from pastureland—$10 per acre.

Feeders Of Illinois To Meet Here Jan. 8, To Hear Allan Kline

Allan B. Kline of Iowa, past president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will be the principal speaker Wednesday evening when the Corn Belt Live Stock Feeders association of Illinois holds its annual meeting at the Masonic Temple.

L. A. Reed of Jacksonville is in charge of arrangements. About 500 members throughout the state have been invited to attend the all-day meeting, which will open with a business session at 10:30 a.m.

At that time a nominating committee and a committee on resolutions will be appointed.

Wallace Ware of Lanark, Illinois, state president, will preside at the afternoon meeting, which will begin at 1:30 p.m. The national president, Newt Johnson of Elburn, Ill., will give the address of welcome, followed by Lewis B. Peggs, vice president of the National Stock Yards Exchange Foundation of E. St. Louis.

Ed Hollinback of Dixon, a past national president, will give a report on his recent trip to Russia and Dr. Thomas K. Jones, a government appointee who has inspected the sanitation and management of community sales barns, will give his report.

Name Winners Of Ashland Xmas Lighting Contest

Mrs. Edgar Thornley and Mrs. Don Danenberger, co-chairmen of the Ashland Woman's club Christmas lighting program, have announced the winners of the contest.

The event was divided into three classes: schools, homes and organizations. The windows by the grade school children were all very good. Each one depicted a scene carrying out an original idea with the caption "A Little Child Shall Lead Them." "Christmas at Home" in the east window of the Newell Insurance office by Mrs. Reiser's first grade was awarded first place; second went to Mrs. Plowright's first grade display in the window of Alta's Beauty Shop. Their theme was "The Night Before Christmas." Mrs. Vland's third grade received third place with their window display of "Santa's Castle" with reindeer made of sweet potatoes. Fourth place was awarded to Miss Reiser's fourth grade for their painting in the west window of Alta's Beauty Shop. Each of the other school entries received two dollars for entering the contest.

First prize in the homes class was awarded to Mrs. Luther Douglass with the church scene of "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men."

"Giving and Receiving" was the well displayed theme of the second place winner, the Burch Nursing Home.

Third place went to the Arnold Meyer's Sons home with a "Child's Expectation of Christmas."

The Ross Anderson home won fourth place for a beautiful white tree with inside flood lights. A picture will be taken of the first place winner and entered in the GE nationwide contest. Honorable mention goes to the D. L. Clark home.

The F. H. A. Nativity scene located between Legion hall and Williams building won first place in the organization division. The F. H. A. scene depicting the Nativity scene won second place.

The judges were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon May of the May's Appliance Store in Jacksonville. The prize money which consisted of $10 for first place, $7.50 for second place, $5 for third place and $3 for fourth place was donated by the following organizations: Ashland Civic Club, Ashland Village Board, Ashland Junior Woman's Club, American Legion, Ashland P.T.A. and the Ashland Woman's Club.

The contest was very successful due to the efforts of the contest committee, Mrs. Don Danenberger, Mrs. Edgar Thornley, Mrs. Stuart Brownback, Mrs. Maw, Mrs. Ralph Newell, Mrs. Walter Jergens, Art Falls and Bill Quinley.

White Hall AF And AM Holds Installation

WHITE HALL—A. F. & A. M. No. 80 held public installation services Monday night at the Masonic Hall, with C. E. Roodhouse serving as installing officer and chaplain. B. R. Pruitt was installing marshal.

Officers installed included Charles L. Wyatt, worshipful master; Clement Knight, senior warden; Herschel Hayes, junior warden; Rollin Ray, treasurer.

George W. Livingstone, secretary; Charles Overton, senior deacon; Donald Goben, junior deacon; Roscoe Keeney, senior steward; Charles Davis, junior steward; marshal, Boris Lyman; Tyler, Elbert Green; chaplain, C. E. Roodhouse, and organist, Austin Wiley.

During the social hour which followed, Mr. Wiley presided at his Hammond organ and refreshments of sandwiches, salad, coffee were served.

Kline's subject will be "Adjusting to Changing Conditions."

The association functions in 10 Corn Belt states. It "advocates terminal markets as the market place with competitive buying and selling based on supply and demand and seeks to avoid price controls and government interference."

Morgan Rural Youth Sponsors New Plat Book

Seven years ago the Morgan County Rural Youth published a plat book for the county as a community service. It was received well and the organization now believes that a thoroughly revised edition would be received with equal interest.

Glen Alborn of Chapin and Miss Donna Morris of rural route 2, Jacksonville, are co-chairmen in charge of the project. There will be a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, at Farm Bureau hall, to further plans for the publication.

John R. Cummings of the Rockford Publishing company met with the Rural Youth at the regular meeting held at Farm Bureau hall Thursday evening. A total of 48 members, the highest in years, attended.

Committees reported on the Rural Youth banquet to be held at Mercedia grade school on Saturday, Jan. 25, beginning at 6:30 p.m. There will be dancing at 9 p.m. Reservations are $1.75 each and all single persons from the age of 16 through 30 are welcome to attend the banquet-dance, and also any other Rural Youth meetings.

Plans were also made Thursday evening for a Rural Youth bowling team.

County's Soil Conservation Group To Meet

Ralph Hay, University of Illinois agricultural engineer, will be the speaker Thursday evening, Jan. 22, when the annual meeting of the Morgan County Soil Conservation district is held at Grace Methodist church. A dinner at 6:30 p.m. will be followed by the business meeting.

President Amos Western of Jacksonville will give his report and Farm Planner Ted Pierce will review accomplishments in the field during the past year. Farm Adviser E. H. Garlich, secretary-treasurer, will give his report.

Three directors will be elected. The terms of Western, Lester Martin of Alexander, and H. P. Joy of Chapin expire this year. Hold-over board members are Clarence Duwer of Waverly and R. G. Leavell of Jacksonville.

Hay will show colored slides of his recent work in India, where he has been teaching and demonstrating soil and water conservation practices and will tell what is being done there in contrast with the work in the United States.

LOADS OF HELP

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Elmer J. Spark decided four years ago to help patients at the veterans hospital at Muskogee 100 miles away.

In that time he has made 24 trips, carrying a load each time. Altogether, he has taken 3,923 books, 3,918 magazines, 75 games, 64 decks of cards, uncounted records, cookies and some 45,000 books of matches.

Development Of Areas May Hazard Drainage

Illinois landowners frequently find their land drainage seriously affected by rapid growth of urban subdivisions, industrial developments and new highway right-of-ways.

So it's important that they keep informed about any proposed changes that may affect their farm drainage systems. Usually they must either cooperate in forming new plans or raise objections before construction is under way, reports Ralph C. Hay, agricultural engineer at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Hay says that the basic principle of Illinois drainage law is that a landowner must receive surface water flowing naturally from a tile outlet.

A landowner faced with this problem can often benefit by cooperating in the drainage changes. At least he can help to hold the damage to his system to a minimum. For example, he may be able to have an outlet storm drain extended through his field to a ditch instead of opening onto the field, or he may be able to use it as a tile outlet. Hay points out.

Cooperation Often Pays
Paved drives, streets and roofs usually produce higher runoff rates than farm lands, but this extra flow can legally be discharged into natural drainage outlets. Affected landowners usually gain more by cooperating than by opposing such cases.

On the other hand, newly developed projects designed to drain in a direction through which the area does not drain naturally are normally contrary to the basic drainage laws of Illinois. A landowner who is affected by such a proposal should either register an objection with legal counsel or demand payment of damages if drainage through his land seems necessary.

Early Offense Best
Highway departments are often involved in these cases. Hay points out, but their interests frequently are not the same as those of affected landowners. Landowners therefore should not depend on the approval of highway officials to protect their land.

Legal action taken before construction starts, rather than later, will result in greater satisfaction to both parties. In many cases both costs and damage may be greatly reduced by cooperation during the planning stages of the project.

On the wheat plots, the system of leaving straw on the soil during the last seven years cut soil losses to half of those when all the wheat and straw were taken off. These reductions resulted in spite of an average 50 percent increase in rainfall in the last seven years.

Stalks and leaves on the soil surface form millions of tiny dams that each hold back only a few ounces of soil, Gard says. But added together, these tiny dams perform soil-saving miracles on sloping ground.

Paradoxical American Way

America is a land fabled throughout the world for its wealth and its high living standards. But amid the riches and the plenty are some strange contradictions and contrasts.

We're not talking about slums, or the destitute.

The real oddity as we spin along in the last half of the 20th century is that there should be so many Americans of reasonably good economic circumstances who seem to be priced out of so many important markets.

A good many independent studies, including some of recent vintage, indicate that people of the middle income level do not have an easy time finding new housing within their means. Too often for comfort they must go heavily on the cuff to get the kind of living accommodations they need.

For the past two or three years a lot of automobile dealers have complained that something similar seems to be happening in the motor car field. Many of their potential customers figure they just can't undertake the financial burdens involved.

Even persons of better than average means tend to blanch when told they face an extended hospital stay, whether or not they have some form of hospitalization insurance. The charges are heavy.

The Educational Testing Service at Princeton, N.J., says now that some 150,000 above-average U.S. high school students don't go to college because they can't get the needed financial support.

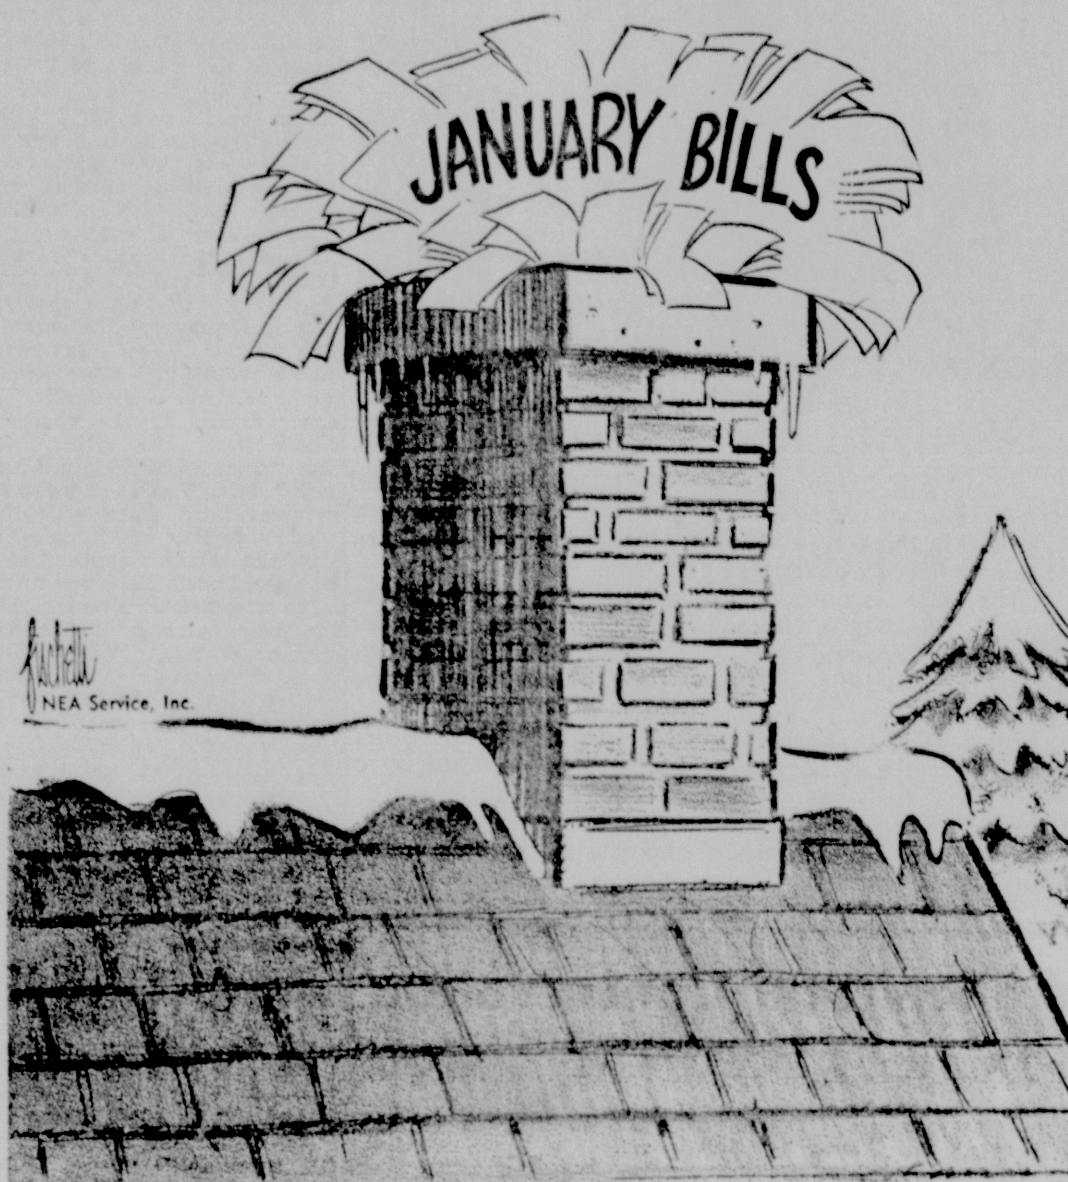

Schooling, housing, medical care, transportation, these are basic fields. No American should have to regard any one of them as a luxury he can't afford.

Most who take note of these facts are simply commenting on a curious contradiction. They are not placing blame anywhere. Everyone is aware of the tremendous postwar rise in costs which has helped to push prices in many fields to sometimes forbidding heights.

A seasoned Washington observer, fingering the plush furniture in a richly-appointed new government office some years ago, said: "My friend, government is a very luxurious operation in this country."

Perhaps we ought to have some new formulas for bringing incomes and needs into closer alignment. Otherwise somebody one day may say that living in the United States is a very luxurious operation, beyond the means of millions.

Party Room—Apples—Lonely Olive—
Sleepless—Popular—Happy Elevator

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN AND JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondents

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The new year promises to produce a new, bona fide No. 1 Washington hostess.

It's going to be Mrs. Richard Nixon, wife of the vice president. Since they've moved into their new large house Mrs. Nixon has gone into big league entertaining and the word is out that she's a great and charming hostess.

When they lived in their small house the Nixons could never have more than two or three guests over for dinner at a time. When they did official entertaining it was always at a hotel or private club.

Now, with a huge house and several servants, she's making up for lost time.

The socially minded members of the administration family are delighted, too. Because of Ike's illness and fondness for the Gettysburg farm, the White House has never been the social rallying point for the party in power which it traditionally is.

The Nixon parties, formal dinners and gay receptions are filling this void.

NO MATTER WHAT Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson proposes these days, it seems to get him in trouble. His latest recommendation which has him in hot water is a plan to substitute an "apple break" for a "coffee break."

He got the idea aimed at reducing an apple surplus—from the New York Experiment Station in Geneva, N.Y.

But it has the Brazilians and other South America coffee producing countries highly irritated. The coffee people are about to protest to the State Department.

Mrs. JIMMY DOOLITTLE, wife of the famed Air Force general, surprised friends at a cocktail party the other night by revealing she was not drinking a Martini but merely a glass of water containing an olive.

"What kind of a drink is that?" a guest asked her.

"It's called the Vanguard Cocktail," Mrs. Doolittle replied. "It has no lift to it at all."

PENTAGON MISSILE boss, Bill Holaday, has a special reason to be furious with the Russians for launching two satellites and causing everybody to get excited and demand that the U.S. catch up. Of course, he wants the U.S. to catch up, too, but he's been so busy lately he has had to give up the afternoon nap he used to take in his office.

PIERRE BOYER, new French attaché, has been flooded with so many invitations since arriving that he's had to install an extra mail box in his apartment to hold them all. He hasn't been without a gorgeous date each night for the last month.

When a phone company official recently asked why he wanted his telephone disconnected, Boyer replied:

"I just don't see any reason to pay for one when I'm never home to use it."

NOTHING UPSETS the Washington cocktail routine.

Other evening an elevator lifting four people to a party at the National Housing Center got stuck between floors.

When workmen opened the elevator's hatch to make repairs, a water leaked over and delivered drinks and hors d'oeuvres to the people inside.

An hour later when the elevator was finally repaired, the four guests agreed they felt as if they had been at the party all the time.

COMMERCE SECRETARY Sinclair Weeks has caught the new urgency in the federal government, since the Russians fired their Sputniks. He now has a 30-foot extension on his inter-office squawk box so no matter where he happens to be pacing in his large office he can summon an assistant without returning to his desk.

OCEANIC SALT
If all the oceans dried up, they would leave about 4,193,300 cubic feet of rock salt, which is about 14 1/2 times the bulk of the entire European continent, including the mountains.

Middle age is just a state of mind and a set of lazy habits. With a little effort and a determination to stay young until they are actually old, a husband and wife can skip the middle-aged attitude toward life.

The couples we think of as "typically middle-aged" has given up trying to look as physically attractive as possible and have put on weight and grown careless about grooming.

They are no longer especially interested in making new friends, but have narrowed their social life until they see the same few couples over and over.

They have become so "sensible" that, given a choice between a trip or some new appliance or furniture for the house, the house wins out over their waning spirit of adventure.

They always put their children first, even though the children are old enough to live in their own worlds and never think of considering Mom and Dad before their own pleasure.

THEY'VE LOST HUMOR
They make mountains out of mole hills and sigh over small upsets, instead of shrugging them off or trying to see the funny side of their minor emergencies.

They never surprise each other, not even with a new idea. They have fallen into the easy chair and TV-type of evenings that leave them vaguely bored, without their quite knowing why.

If anything looks like a big effort, they refuse to make it. They have forgotten the dreams they had when they were young without bothering to replace them with new ones.

They take each other so much for granted that they make little effort to please, inspire and encourage each other.

That's the state of mind and the lazy habits we term "middle age."

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — The six-man Civil Rights Commission, created to scan the whole field of civil rights problems for nearly two years, starts in business today. But it's not yet a going, established concern.

The members, to be sworn in today at the White House, recently were appointed by President Eisenhower in accordance with the Civil Rights Act passed last summer by Congress.

The appointments of all six members — three from the North, three from the South — are subject to Senate approval. This could mean some uncertainty since Southern members may try to prevent approval. However, the new commission has power to start operating as soon as it is organized.

The key man in the commission's work — the staff director — hasn't been named by Eisenhower yet. His nomination too will be subject to Senate approval. The Southerners are sure to give him a close look.

The commissioners all have other jobs. So they won't work full time on the commission. They'll get $50 a day for every day actually worked. The staff director, working full time, will be paid $22,500 a year.

It will be this director, and the staff he picks, who will make the investigations and set up the hearings which the commissioners will hold. Under the 1957 law they can hold their hearings any place, any time.

This commission — headed by John A. Hannah, 55, president of Michigan State University — has very broad investigative powers. It can look into the whole field of civil rights from denial of voting privileges to economic pressure against Negroes and discrimination in its various forms.

But it can't make charges against anyone. It can make recommendations for improving existing civil rights laws for passing new ones, or for actions it thinks should be taken by the executive branch of the government without new laws.

It has this much power: It can subpoena witnesses to appear before it. This power can be backed up by a federal court. So the commission doesn't have to depend on the voluntary cooperation of people it wants to question.

In short, the commission is supposed to be a fact-finding body. One of the unknowns about the six men is how they'll get along with one another and with the staff director.

During the commission's life—unless there are unexpected developments — Congress is unlikely to pass any further civil rights legislation. The mood in Congress will probably be: Let's see what the commission says.

Atty. Gen. Rogers said recently the Eisenhower administration expects to offer Congress no new civil rights legislation this year. This is one way of keeping Southern opposition to the commission to a minimum.

So They Say
It is painfully obvious that the President is not up to the tasks imposed by time and events.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), calling on President Eisenhower to resign.

Unless halted organized labor will eventually dominate the American political scene.

Cola G. Parker, board chairman of National Assn. of Manufacturers.

There will be no frills, no fuss, no gymnasium, no football fields. But these can come later. America must take our geniuses of tomorrow and start educating them today.

United Steelworkers president David J. McDonald, urging crash school building program.

It is no exaggeration to assert that the survival of our freedom may not be at stake in our classrooms. What is needed is a new understanding by the American people of the crucial importance of good education.

Mobile Homes Practical For Retired People

BY BEULAH STOWE

Mrs. Anna Lindquist found her nine-room house too big for her after her husband died four years ago. She sold the house and its one-acre lot, with the provision that she be allowed to rent trailer space for $10 a month from the new owner, for as long as she wanted it.

She bought a 40-foot mobile home—not to travel in—but to stay home in. She wanted to remain close to her friends and her two children. But she had to keep her monthly expenses low and she had to find a way of living which would make housekeeping easier.

Many retired people, like Mrs. Lindquist, are finding mobile homes suitable for their living needs.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. sold their house last year and bought a 10-foot-wide mobile home. Mr. F. will be retired in two years. They wanted to test trailer life ahead of time, and they have found it satisfactory.

When retirement comes, they expect to move their home on wheels to a new setting, probably Arizona. They'll stay there if they like it as much as they expect to or they will try another section of the country. Moving will be no housing problem.

The S. F.s do not plan to be constant travelers. Their trailer, because of its width, will be hauled to its destination by a professional towing company.

Retired people who use mobile homes for seasonal traveling usually prefer narrower trailers, 25 to 35 feet in length.

Many trailer parks cater to retired people, and at least two of the largest parks in Florida have a rule that ONLY retired people can be accepted as residents.

There are 1,100,000 mobile homes in the United States today, housing more than three million people.

Q—"We own our house, worth about $16,000 today, and we expect to be retired on a small pension next year. Can we do anything with our investment in the house which will help us live from month to month?" D.N.

A—Consider selling your home and buying a duplex or two-family home for about the same price. This will enable you to earn income on your property—and all the more profit if you can take care of the maintenance yourself.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT
How the Christian Church Began

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
It is customary to date the origin of the Christian Church from the day of Pentecost, and the events set forth in Acts 2.

That is, of the Church as a definite historic organization, as well as a fellowship of those who had known and followed Jesus. Also, it comprised the three thousand converts who constituted the first statistical group, setting a precedent for our own time, when statistics often seem to loom larger than spiritual reality.

But the true significance of Pentecost was not the organization, but the faith and experience that brought the organization into action to fulfill the bequest left them by their Master, to go into all the world, and make disciples of all nations (Matthew 28:19).

The real foundation of the Christian Church was in Jesus Christ Himself, in His life, and teaching, and in the Gospel of God's Grace that He committed His followers to declare.

It was not long until organization and action began to overlay and in some measure to obscure and pervert the purity of the Christian teaching and the Gospel.

A man who was not at Pentecost, or who, if he was there, was there as an observer, about to become an intense persecutor of some who were there, was destined to become a much more important figure in the Church's greatest building, and also its greatest critic.

Paul the Apostle was an Apostle chosen by God, rather than by the votes of those who had chosen Matthias to fill out the number of the Twelve left vacant by the defection of Judas.

The record is very great concerning the apostle of St. Paul. He was the supreme builder, with incredible zeal in preaching the Gospel, and establishing churches throughout Asia Minor, and pushing on in response to the Macedonian call to Europe. He more than any other represented the commission to "make disciples of all nations."

This Paul, who was the Church's greatest builder, was also its greatest critic. He "withstood (Peter) to the face" (Galatians 2:11), when Peter would have limited the Gospel in its expression and practice against what Paul deemed its world-wide and complete expression. His sharp criticism, moreover, was upon the churches that he himself established. As one sees from the Epistles to the Corinthians he lashed out against the immorality of some in the church, and the laxity with which the church itself had regarded the offenses.

He denounced the dissensions that had arisen, and in a broader and more complete way which modern churches might well emulate, he raised question concerning what men were building upon the one foundation.

Paul did not question integrity or motives. Those who built in sincerity would be saved "yet so as by fire." But if they built upon the one foundation "gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble" the fire would try every man's work (I Corinthians 3:10-15).

It is a remarkable declaration of a man who dared to criticize as well as to build.

Colorado is a Spanish word meaning "red."

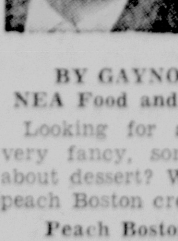

Matter of FACT

The Great Pyramid, near Giza Egypt, was built about 3,000 B.C. by King Cheops (Khufu). His son, Chephren (Khafra) built the Second Pyramid, only a little smaller than his father's. In measuring out the base of the Great Pyramid, the king's engineers made less than 1 inch error in 756 feet per side. The next king, Menkaura (Mycerinus), built the Third Pyramid.

Peach Filling Will Make
Boston Cream Pie De Luxe

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Looking for a super special, very fancy, something-to-talk-about dessert? Well, here it is—peach Boston cream pie.

Peach Boston Cream Pie (8 to 10 servings)

Cake: One cup sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, 2/3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2 tablespoons cold water, 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

Sift flour twice with baking powder and salt. Separate eggs. Beat whites until stiff and beat in 1/2 the sugar, adding about 2 tablespoons at a time. Beat yolks until thick and yellow, and beat in the remainder of sugar, lemon juice and rind. Beat until very thick. Add water gradually while beating. Fold in beaten whites.

Sift flour over egg and sugar mixture, gradually folding it in. Fold in cooled melted butter. Pour into wax-lined 9-inch round layer pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Cool. Split into 2 layers. Put layers together with peach cream filling. Cut into wedges to serve.

Filling: One cup canned cling peach slices, 3/4 cups flour, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, 1/2 tablespoon butter or margarine, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, few drops almond extract.

Drain peaches. Blend together flour, sugar and salt and stir into scalded milk. Cook over hot water, stirring frequently until thickened, about 10 to 15 minutes. Beat egg and stir slowly into thickened mixture and cook 2 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add butter, flavorings and peaches. Mix well. Cool.

MONDAY'S DINNER: Pan-broiled chopped round steak, potatoes, whipped potatoes, stewed tomatoes, onions and cracker crumbs, enriched bread, butter or margarine, celery and raw carrot sticks, peach Boston cream pie, coffee, tea, milk.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — There are a few fortunate TV programs which continue year after year regardless of trends and ratings. The Bob Cummings Show is one of these.

Like Ozzy and Harriet and Burns and Allen, Bob's show continues on its merry way without interruption. Next Tuesday he is laughing into his fifth year with the weekly gambol in which he plays a photographer with an eye for the glamor dolls.

There are several reasons for the show's success. Foremost is the fact that Bob is one of the top light comedians in the business. And the show is a clever combo of sex and comedy. Plus which Bob can benefit from the mistakes of his first TV venture, a ridiculous caper called "My Hero."

"After that show was dropped, I was as dead as you can possibly get in show business," he recalled. "I sat in my agent's office one day and heard a top producer tell him on the phone that nobody would buy me. Being out of work, I accepted the State Department's invitation to go on a goodwill mission to Argentina."

While he was down there, a top-flight comedy writer, Paul Henning, came up with the idea for a new show for Bob. The idea clicked, and overnight Bob was a hot star again.

The Cummings show was pitted against Groucho Marx, since it was figured that Groucho attracted largely a mature audience. The reasoning turned out well, Bob said, and he corraled the young married and teen-age crowd. Also the youngsters, who are complaining in large numbers since the time has been moved to the late 9:30 hour on Tuesday.

Bob remarked that a major reason for the success of the show is the tightness of the operation. Henning produces and writes. Bob directs and stars and Bob's wife, Mary, handles all the business matters as president of the company.

"So we don't have to go far to get decisions made," he said.

Part I: A Real Break

I was sure glad to see that snow coming down when I woke up Saturday morning.

I said to myself, "Bob Timmons, old boy, this is just the break you need to earn some money so you can go to Center City next weekend and see our Plainsville High play the opening game of the basketball season."

Soon as I was dressed and had breakfast, I started out with my snow pusher over my shoulder. It was a light kind of snow, so I didn't have to use a shovel, and pushing's a lot easier.

As it turned out, I needn't have worried, for all my doorknob ringing got me was "No's."

Going along from house to house with no particular route in mind, I found I had gravitated toward Jim Stone's house. This was natural because I don't know anyone I admire more.

Jim was on the basketball team until he had polio last summer. Now he's on crutches, but you never see him look picky-faced about it. He's glad just to be able to be back in school.

Jim was sitting at the window as I came along. He waved at me and I waved back and turned in to his walk, pushing the snow off as I came. He was at the door, leaning on his crutches when I clumped up on the porch.

"Hi there, fella. Thanks for a clean walk," he said with a grin. "Have to do something to keep in practice," I answered, and boy, that was a fact. I stood my snow pusher against the house and pulled off my galoshes.

"Come on in and rest your arms," said Jim.

"Rest your ears is more like it," I said as I pounded the snow off my jacket and stepped into the warm hall.

Jim is Puzzled

"Did you say rest your ears?" asked Jim, looking very puzzled, as we went into the living room.

"I sure did. Brother, they're they're practically limp from hearing people say, 'No I'm going to shovel my own walk.' I just dropped into a chair and stretched my legs.

"That's tough," Jim said again. "Wish I could help you, Bob. I thought, 'That's just like you, Jim, wanting to help somebody else.' But of course I didn't say it; he wouldn't have liked it. Instead, I said, 'I could use help, boy. Put that brain of yours to work. It ought to be good for something besides pulling down A for Algebra.'"

I stood up and ran my fingers through my hair. Mom says I shouldn't do it, because it makes my hair stand out in all directions, but I can't remember not to.

"Guess I better be on my way, or I'll never make enough to get to Center City next weekend. May not anyway."

GOLDEN BOY—Truly a man with the golden touch, Herman Diemer of Brooklyn, N.Y., who washes about 10 cents' worth of gold dust from his hands every night, is retiring from the job after 62 years. Diemer, 74, has melted down an estimated two million pounds of gold over the years while employed as chief melter for J. R. Wood and Sons, the largest maker of wedding and engagement rings. He has a record that's also golden, having missed only three and one-half days during all his years with the firm. (And in case you wondered, the company traps the wash water used by the workers to recover the gold dust.)

The World Of The Microscope

By Ray Brockel

Part I: Exciting Discovery

Late in the 17th century, a man named Leeuwenhoek invented the first microscope. Leeuwenhoek lived in Holland and his discovery of the instrument called the microscope greatly helped the world of science.

Of course Leeuwenhoek's microscope was a very simple instrument compared to the wonderful ones we have today, but then first inventions usually are improved upon.

The microscope is a very important instrument in our present day world. It is used in many science fields to help us make better things, to help doctors fight human diseases, and better to understand the world around us.

Opens Magic Door

By looking through a microscope, a fascinating new world spreads out before us. Tiny creatures of the animal world that we never knew existed swim hurriedly about in a drop of pond water.

Crystals of salt and sugar take on their own definite shapes and the edge of a piece of torn paper makes us think we are looking at a tropical jungle filled with jumbled masses of trees and interwoven vines. Truly, the microscope is a doorway into another world.

In order to make small things appear larger in size they have to be magnified. This is done by an arrangement of pieces of glass called lenses. Lenses are pieces of glass that are ground and polished so that they have a curved surface.

A simple arrangement of a lens can be found in a reading glass. Pocket lenses of many different types and tripod magnifiers are also simple magnifiers.

By the use of the above mentioned pieces of equipment you can observe the structure and make-up of many things you could not see with your eyes alone.

If you are fortunate enough to have a microscope or your own, or if you can have the use of one at school or at a museum, you can carry out many experiments.

The drawing of the compound microscope and its parts shows the main parts of a microscope. Even though the one you have or are working with doesn't look quite the same, most of the parts pictured will be on it. Make sure that you know how to operate the microscope you are using.

Some Rules

A few general rules that apply to all microscopes are these: (1) Never turn the tube down while looking through the eye-piece. You might scratch the lens, if you accidentally push it into the slide.

(2) Choose a spot to work with your microscope where a good source of light will be available. Either outside or electric lights will do.

Other equipment you will need are glass slides, cover glasses, Canada balsam, razor blade, and the specimens you are going to view.

The glass slides are used to hold the specimen which you are going to view. Cover glasses are placed on top of the objects to keep them in place.

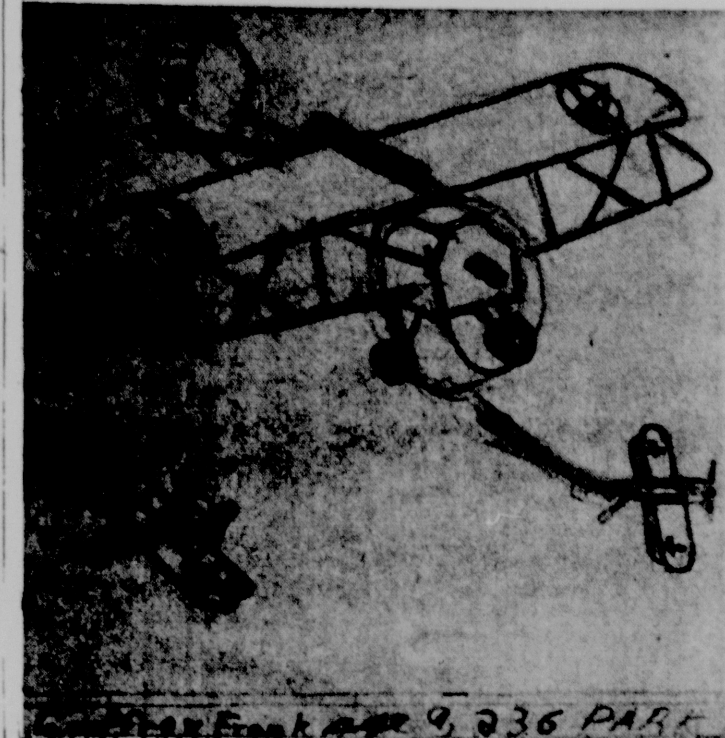

Next we'll tell you about making a permanent slide.

Colorado was named for a Spanish word which means red. It became a state in 1876.

and gave the box to Willie for a keepsake.

YELLOW TETRA

The Yellow Tetra was a popular aquarium fish about twenty years ago. Since that time it has lost popularity because of the many more colorful fishes that have been introduced to our country.

The Yellow Tetra has a long scientific name, Hyphessobrycon bifasciatus. Another variety of it, called the "Brass Tetra" is much more in demand today.

The original home of the Yellow Tetra is in the southeastern part of Brazil. It reaches a length of two inches when full grown. Like most of the tetras, it is a peaceful aquarium fish.

Its coloring is rather plain, with a dark yellow overcast. Behind the head are two faintly black bars—these show up better in the males. The Yellow Tetra pictured above is a female.

The Yellow Tetra, like most of the other tetras, has a small mouth, and consequently eats only tiny insects or particles of food. It is a good aquarium fish, bothering no one. It is one of the easier egg-laying fishes to breed.

Since it has rather delicate colors, one has to observe the Yellow Tetra closely actually to see its coloring. When seen in the right light, it is a very pretty fish.

ROCKETS and SPACE

MORNING STAR

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

During the times of the year when Venus rises in the morning, it is known as the Morning Star although, as we said last week, it is not a star but a planet.

The ancient Greeks thought that Venus was a different star when it rose in the morning, than the one that rose in the evening so they had two names for it, Phosphorus and Hesperus.

Phosphorus is Greek for "Light Bringer," Hesperus is Greek for evening.

Some astronomers have seen bright spots in the thick clouds of Venus. They believe these are mountain tops that stick above the clouds.

By watching these mountain tops an astronomer has figured that the Venusian day is about a week long. We are not certain that these bright spots are mountain peaks. We will probably have to wait until man can go above the earth's atmosphere to find the answer to this mystery.

If these mountains do exist, they're as high as the Himalayan mountains on earth. They would have to be to peek through the clouds.

The existence of high mountains on Venus would also prove that the clouds could not be continuous sandstorms on Venus. Such sandstorms would blast away such high features.

Temperatures above these clouds have been calculated at from 140 degrees to 40 degrees F. The temperatures below the clouds might not have such a wide range. This is because of the blanketing effect of the atmosphere.

An American Every One Should Know

Clara Barton

By Walter B. Hendrickson

Red Cross In U.S.

All of us know about the fine things the Red Cross does to help our soldiers and to aid people who have suffered from disasters like floods and tornadoes.

The International Red Cross was organized in Switzerland in 1864, when most of the nations of the world signed a treaty agreeing to recognize the Red Cross as an humanitarian agency to serve the sufferers in wartime, and agreeing not to hinder it in any way from doing its good works.

But the United States did not recognize this treaty at once, and it was mostly through the efforts of Clara Barton, that finally in 1882, the United States signed a treaty recognizing the International Red Cross and the American Red Cross as a branch of it.

Clara Barton was a determined, and energetic person all her life, and she worked tirelessly to care for the weak, the sick and the poor. She was a school teacher for several years, later going to Washington, D.C. When the Civil War broke out she organized a relief service for the soldiers, even going close to the battle line to bring bandages and medicines and food to the wounded.

When the war was over, Miss Barton worked for several years for the United States government, searching for missing soldiers. When this job ended she went to Europe for a rest from her hard work, but she was soon in the midst of another war, the Franco-Prussian War. She joined up with the International Red Cross to help soldiers and their families.

Wants U.S. In Red Cross

When she came back to America, she was determined that the United States should have a Red Cross and that it should become a part of the International body. She was appointed American representative of the International Red Cross, and began a campaign.

She called on the President, members of the cabinet, congressmen, and influential citizens. She published a pamphlet, and she was interviewed by reporters, and so got her story across to the public.

Success came finally in 1882, when on the recommendation of the President, the Senate ratified the Red Cross treaty, and also recognized the American Red Cross. Miss Barton herself became the first head of the American Red Cross, and worked energetically, even going to Turkey and to Cuba when there was war in those places.

Peace Time Aid

She attended meetings of the International Red Cross, and succeeded in getting this organization to adopt the idea of doing humanitarian work in times of peace as well as war, when there were great disasters.

For a long time, the American Red Cross was mostly the energetic Miss Barton. When she grew older, she had to give up the direction of its affairs, because there was so much to be done that she was appointed American representative of the International Red Cross, and began a campaign.

But the same devotion to human welfare so fully and freely given by Clara Barton is still the spirit of the Red Cross.

SCIENCE CAN BE FUN!

Homemade Compass

Hi ye kids! Hope you enjoyed our earlier project, and will enjoy our adventures into the world of magnetism and the compass. Let's make our own just for fun.

It's simple really, for all you will need will be a large pan of water, a large cork (like a thermos bottle cork), a sewing needle, and a small magnet.

Now to make our compass, first we rub the sewing needle with our magnet being sure to always rub from the eye to the point! We will do this quite a few times so as to magnetize our needle.

Next, we push the magnetized needle through the cork, and float the cork and pin in our pan of water. Watch it burn until it points to the magnetic north pole. If you wish, check it with a Scout's compass.

We know that our earth has both true and magnetic north and south poles. (It is even claimed now that we have two magnetic north poles.)

Our compass here in Jacksonville will point about four degrees east of the true north pole. Indeed, like a magnet, the earth does have its magnetic north and south poles.

Any scout can tell you how he can "find my way" by means of a compass. Check him sometime.

Incidentally, another way to do this little stunt is to suspend the cork and needle with a string and it will swing around till it points to magnetic north.

If you've stroked the needle correctly it will work. If it doesn't work, probably you didn't do this correctly.

Let's Go Birding

SAD EYES

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Many an observation has been made by writers about our well-known bird, the Robin. Its breast is red, brick-red, deep cinnamon-rufous, or russet.

Its bill is yellow. Its chin is white; its throat is streaked with white and black. There are white spots at the extremities of the outer tail-feathers.

Mrs. Eifert, in her book entitled "Birds In Your Back Yard," spoke of its "white tail-tips shining like tail-lights in the migration flight."

Most of those points may be so minor that we haven't noticed them. We take so much for granted about a familiar bird.

Furthermore, there is something about the Robin's eyes that ornithologists seem to overlook or feel that it isn't necessary to mention. Around the Robin's eyes is a wide brown white circle. Pictures show that this white circle is made up of three sections more noticeable than the white at the end of the tail.

MRS. J. ALLEN BIGGS, JR.

Mary Lee McClintock And J. Allen Biggs, Jr. Married At Springfield Methodist Church

A former Jacksonville resident, Miss Mary Lee McClintock, who has been attending the Springfield Junior College in that city and making her home with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur R. Gibbs of Springfield, was united in marriage with J. Allen Biggs, Jr., in a holiday ceremony performed December twenty-second.

Vows were exchanged in an afternoon service performed at First Methodist church in Springfield with the Reverend R. A. Grummon reading the double ring rites. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Gibbs.

The former Miss McClintock is the daughter of Mrs. Claude Cline, 350 West College avenue in this city. The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Allen Biggs, 869 Edgehill Road.

Three close friends attended the bride, Mrs. Robert Hembrough of Jacksonville, the former Linda Watt and cousin of the groom, was maid of honor; Mrs. Robert Black, the former Ella Mae Smock of this city and Miss Donna Kormeyer, also of Jacksonville, were secondary attendants. James Crouse of Carbondale served as best man and groomsmen were Rob Smith and Donald May with William Townsend, Robert Hembrough and David Hicks, all of Jacksonville, as ushers.

White Christmas trees at the church altar were adorned with red, white and green lights and poinsettias, completing the holiday setting. Two selections comprised the brief prelude, Franklin Perkins sang, "Through the Years" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Perkins.

Gowned In Bridal Satin
The bride wore glowing ivory satin fashioned on regal lines with a Cathedral length train. The bodice, with long sleeves tapering to points over the hands and fastened with satin covered buttons, had a V cut neckline with soft fold over the shoulders. Sequins and pearls were embroidered on the Alencon lace bordering the neckline and trimming the front bodice. The dress buttoned from the back neck to below the waistline with tiny satin covered buttons. A small half-hat headdress held secure the bride's veil of imported illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis centered with orchids.

The bride's attendants were gowned alike in green velvet with satin sashes. They wore matching color velvet headbands with small nose veils and carried white velvet muffs to which poinsettia blossoms were attached.

Jeffrey Biggs, small cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

Both mothers chose blue for the wedding. Mrs. Cline in navy crepe and lace with white dress accessories and Mrs. Biggs in navy chiffon wool with white touches. Their flowers were white orchids. Mrs. Gibbs, aunt of the bride, wore a blue-grey wool with pastel blue hat.

Receive At Church

Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs entertained guests at a reception held in the church parlors following the ceremony. Holly with white roses continued the red and white appointments in decor. Assisting with serving at the bride's table were Mrs. David Weber, Mrs. Wayne Herrin, Miss Judy Hazelrigg, Miss Estella Lacey, Miss William Nunn and Mrs. James Crouse.

When the couple left for a short wedding trip to Missouri the bride was wearing a Dior blue knit with matching hat and the orchids taken from her wedding bouquet. Both Mr. and Mrs. Biggs are graduates of the Jacksonville High School. The bride will transfer her studies from Springfield Junior College, where she has been in her sophomore year, to Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago where the bridegroom is in his junior year studying mechanical engineering.

WESTERN PEPPER

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A peeping tom with a western bent was the object of a recent police hunt. The peeper showed up in the back yard of Joseph Alexo, mounted on a horse. Dubious policemen were convinced after Alexo showed them the hoofprints.

MRS. HOWARD L. JOHNSON

Sue Anne Crowe And Howard L. Johnson Are Wed At Our Saviour's Church Saturday, December 28

A nuptial mass at the Church of Our Saviour Saturday morning, December twenty-eighth, united in marriage Miss Sue Anne Crowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Walter Crowe, 615 South Prairie street and Howard L. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton J. Johnson, 1568 South Diamond street.

The Reverend Anthony Cepanis performed the double ring ceremony for which the Mass of Loretta was used by Mrs. Alta Eisch at the organ and Miss Margaret Williamson and Miss Margaret DeVore, soloists.

The altar of the church was banked with poinsettia.

The bride had three attendants, Miss Rebecca Wagner, maid of honor; Miss Barbara Smith, and the bride's sister, Mary Louise, as bridesmaids.

Ted Cors attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Paul Casler and Jerry Ryan. Ushers were Tom Coates here from Alexandria, La., Dean Perkins and Don Maxwell.

Wears Lace And Tulle Gown
Given in marriage by her great uncle, Walter Williams, the bride wore a formal gown fashioned of Casler and Jerry Ryan. Ushers were Tom Coates here from Alexandria, La., Dean Perkins and Don Maxwell.

The snug fitting bodice in lace featured a Sabrina neckline and the sleeves were long tapering to fit tightly at the wrists.

The tulle skirt was bouffant over multiple net underskirts billowing generously to floor length. There were two panels of hand-clipped lace and elaborate details was established with alternate ruffles in lace and pleated tulle down the center back. Dainty appliques of the hand-clipped lace were used about the frothy skirts.

An etched crown in lace embroidered in seed pearls held secure the bride's fingertip length veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of white carnations with holly tied with satin ribbons.

The attendants wore chiffon and velvet gowns in traditional holiday colors. Miss Wagner was in green and Misses Smith and Crowe in red. The dresses were fashioned with fitted bodices in velvet, chiffon and velvet skirts, very full and velvet hats to match their respective costumes. Their slippers also matched the gowns. Each carried a white velvet muff with a small corsage of poinsettia and holly attached.

Mrs. Crowe chose for her daughter's wedding beige lace with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother wore a blue-gray lace with white hat and black basic accessories. Her flowers were deep pink roses.

Morning Reception
Immediately following the church wedding a reception was held at the Dunlap hotel at 10 o'clock in the banquet room. Silver with white were used in table appointments with the three-tiered cake decorated with silvery holly and white wedding bells. Silver candelabra graced the center of the serving table. Close friends of the bride assisting with the serving were Mrs. Thomas Coates, serving cake; Miss Janet Henry, tea; Miss Connie Lahey, coffee; Miss Mary Coop, registering guests and Miss Judy Lair, in charge of the gifts.

When leaving for a wedding trip East the bride was wearing for travel a mint green jersey with brown accessories and pink carnations at her shoulder. Shortly the newlyweds will be at home at 1329 Savannah street, S. E., Washington 20, D. C.

The bride is a graduate of Routh high school. She attended Illinois College, summer classes at MacMurray and Springfield Junior College. Mrs. Johnson plans to teach in Washington.

The groom is a graduate of Jacksonville high school and in 1956 enlisted in the Navy. He received schooling at the Naval Hospital Corpsman School, Great Lakes, Ill. and is assigned to the Naval Receiving Station in Washington. His rank is Third Class Petty Officer.

ELBERT EDELBROCKS VISIT IN MERRITT

MERRITT—Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Edelbrock and sons of Peoria spent Monday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Berry.

Mrs. George Hardwick and daughter, Mary Ellen Injer, left Tuesday for Sunnyside, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. John Furry, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Funk, Mrs. Lola Funk, Mrs. Fern Walsh and Beverly and Sue Walsh attended the Edward Marquard and Laura Funk wedding Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church in Lilliberry.

Does your present work have these advantages?

This message is addressed to the man who is ambitious and alert for THE big opportunity... who is "successful"—but who still hasn't reached the goal he deserves.

Such a man can acquire a going business and virtually write his own ticket on income. He would be his own boss... sell an exclusive product as an exclusive distributor serving a population of 20,000 to 40,000 people.

In business for 60 years, Investors Diversified Services is steadily growing in the financial field.

I.D.S. now has 160 offices in the United States and Canada... More than 2,200 men and women are representatives for the company in the two countries... I.D.S. has over $30,000,000 in assets on its books, and the number has grown every month for several years...

To indicate the size of the company with which the right man may become associated, I.D.S. at present manages assets of approximately $1,288,000,000; more than half of this amount has been added in the past five years.

This growth spells an extraordinary opportunity for a number of qualified men. We will add qualified personnel to our organization during the next few weeks. If such a career appeals to you and if you believe you can qualify, we will be glad to arrange an early personal interview.

GOOD PROVIDER
SUNBURY, Pa. (AP)—While the other members of his hunting party tramped through the forests in search of deer, H. R. Morris Sr. of Sunbury, a former Navy cook, stayed behind in camp to prepare their dinner.

The party returned to find a freshly killed deer hanging from a tree limb. The deer had strayed into the camp; Morris spotted it from the cabin window when he chanced to glance up from his chores. He grabbed his rifle and shot it through the heart.

It Says "Greatness"...in Any Language!

Wherever highways exist and motor cars are known, the name "Cadillac" signifies but one thing—the unmistakable leader in its field.

For the motor car that has borne that distinguished name for the past fifty-five years has been so well designed and crafted that it has become a synonym for everything good and desirable in a product.

And never have these virtues been more evident than they are in the Cadillac car for 1958.

A single, sweeping glance at the new "car of cars", for example, reveals a grace and majesty and elegance never before attainable in modern automotive design.

A brief journey at the wheel provides irrefutable proof of the forward strides that have been made in Cadillac performance and in Fleetwood coachcrafting.

And a study of the facts about Cadillac economy and dependability indicates a soundness of investment beyond anything in Cadillac's brilliant past.

If you haven't as yet inspected and driven a 1958 Cadillac, you should do so very soon.

Whatever your favorite among Cadillac's wide selection of models, which includes the distinguished Eldorado Brougham, you will find it a rare masterpiece in everything a Cadillac can be.

CDA Plans For Second Annual Bridal Pageant

The Catholic Daughters of America met Thursday evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall with Mrs. Virginia Ferron, grand regent presiding.

After reports from the various standing committees, new business was disposed of. A donation was voted to the March of Dimes. A tentative date, April 17, was announced by Mrs. Ferron as the day set for taking into the court new members, Mrs. Loretta Ring, chairman of a recent bazaar and food sale, reported that they were both a success and that a large amount was realized.

Mrs. Marie Saner, president of the local branch of the National Council of Catholic Women, announced that March 9 had been set for a day of Recollection at which time an outstanding conductor would be present.

Mrs. Ferron announced that plans for the second annual Pageant of Brides are rounding out nicely. She remarked that the members and anyone who had antique or outstanding articles of clothing which might add interest to the affair should get in touch with Mrs. Charles Lockman, chairman of the pageant, at an early date.

A card party for members and their friends will be held Monday, Jan. 20, at the K. of C. hall. After the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed and Mrs. Marie Saner was awarded an attendance prize. A beautifully decorated birthday cake honored all members with birthdays in January. Miss Mary Coop made the cake.

The committee responsible for a very pleasant social evening was Mrs. Louise Coop and Bernice McNamara, co-chairmen. Emily McNeely, Lillian Cox, Eva Daniels, Margaret Flynn, Stella Hagan, Elizabeth Heffner, Mae Hoban, Marie Lahey, Marge Winters, Anna Duffner, Gussie Duffner, Elizabeth Doyle, Anna Davidson, Rose and Mary Wagner, Ann Connolly, Annabelle Allen, Nola Anderson, Angeline Willner, Irene Wirth, Phyllis Tucks, Celia McCarty, Edith Conway and Mary Alice Carl.

Christian Science Monitor Founded Half-Century Ago

Editor's Note—Boston's famed Christian Science Monitor was founded 50 years ago amidst free predictions of failure for the novel journalistic venture. Confounding such prophets, the Monitor has flourished exceedingly—and without compromise of its tenets.

By DICK SINNOTT
BOSTON (U-P)—When Paul S. Deland quit his newspaper to join the newly founded Christian Science Monitor, his managing editor told him he was being silly.

"That thing," said he, "won't last six months. I'll hold your job for you."

This was half a century ago. Today Deland, who has been with "that thing" since its first issue of 1908, is the Monitor's associate editor and one of the men who make the remarkable enterprise hum.

People who predicted failure for the church-owned daily in its cradle days—and several publishers did—found their crystal ball to have been singularly opaque.

Celebrating its golden anniversary year, the flourishing Monitor reaches 120 countries with a circulation of about 180,000. And it has built this far-flung readership without local mass circulation in Boston itself—90 per cent of it being outside. In the profession, this is considered an unusual feat indeed.

Monitors are delivered by camel in African wastes, dog sleds in snowbound lands and native runners in tropic isles. In some remote localities readers pay up to $400 for airmail annual subscriptions. (The regular rate is $18.)

Throughout its career, the Monitor has resolutely eschewed sensationalism, flamboyance, and advertising from sources it declines on principle—tobacco, liquor, medicinal remedies.

Winner of 89 national and international awards and tributes extending to all phases of its operation, the Monitor is presided over by Edwin D. Canham, 57, its graying, friendly-eyed editor, who himself holds a dozen awards for contributions as a newspaperman, educator, author, lecturer, and radio and television commentator.

From the vantage point of the Monitor's milestone, Canham casts a thoughtful look at the future of the medium with which his professional life is identified.

"The years ahead," says Canham, "will call for richer skills and greater responsibilities from newspapermen and newspapermen."

"As the world becomes more complex, perilous, and full of portents for good as well as danger, the newspaper will have a bigger job than ever to help guide citizens through the mazes."

"It will remain everlastingly necessary to probe for the hidden fact and the obscured event."

The Monitor has long been given to such calm, persistent probing. Among its more notable news beats was the story by its U.S. staffer William Frye foreshadowing Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dismissal from command in Korea four days before the event.

And in 1942, the Monitor disclosed for the first time the full extent of U.S. shipping losses since the start of the war—losses considerably greater than the government had announced.

While the Monitor is really a national and international newspaper, it keeps an alert eye on its own bailiwick—Boston. A series on municipal affairs including an expose of assessing practices earned staffer Robert C. Bennett a Boston Junior Chamber of Commerce award.

All of which, and more besides, points up Canham's conviction that "the day of the printed word is far from ended, swift as is the delivery of the radio bulletin, graphic as is television's eyewitness picture, the task of adding meaning and clarity remains urgent. People cannot and need not absorb meanings at the speed of light."

And, touching on another remarkable aspect of the Monitor's operation, Canham added: "The relationship the Monitor has always had with most of its readers—it reaches them after they have already had the spot news—is now the relationship of nearly all newspapers, though all have not yet realized it. Thus we feel we have done some useful pioneering."

The Monitor was founded by Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy who—as far back as 1883—declared that a "newspaper edited and published by the Christian Scientists has become a necessity." Later she added: "Through a paper of our own we shall be able to reach many homes with healing, purifying thought."

Tell Wedding Of Gary L. Turpin, Carrollton Girl

CARROLLTON—Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Dixie L. Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jones of this city, to Gary L. Turpin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Turpin, also of Carrollton. The couple were married in the early fall in Mississippi by a Presbyterian minister.

Mrs. Turpin will continue her duties as secretary at the Carrollton Community Unit high school and Mr. Turpin will continue his studies at Illinois College at Jacksonville. Both young people are graduates of the Carrollton Community Unit high school.

ROODHOUSE MAN WITH G.M. AND O. 10 YEARS, RETIRES

ROODHOUSE—Arch Penneck, who has been in engine service for the G. M. & O. railroad, retired Dec. 31, completing 40 years of service. This service as a railroader began on Aug. 1, 1917, as a fireman at Slater, Mo., where he was born Dec. 11, 1892.

The last seven years he has worked as a hostler in Roodhouse where he and Mrs. Penneck will continue to reside.

Fellow employees surprised him by bestowing upon him gifts of a billfold and $29 in cash along with their congratulations and commendations.

Teen-Agers Can Help Along Growing Figure

Good resolution for the beginning of the year centers around a streamlined figure. This girl uses a folded terry towel as a massage strap to tighten up flabby flesh. She lathered her legs with soapsuds before starting.

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Most teen-agers like the idea of a streamlined figure. But often they feel that exercises are too much trouble.

This is an erroneous notion, of course. Five minutes a day of stretching and bending and pulling will help any teen-ager on her way to a prettier figure.

The beginning of the New Year is a fine time to start. You can combine massage with your nightly bath and reap double benefits.

To tighten up those flabby leg muscles (which get much more exercise in summer), lather your legs thoroughly with soap. Then use a folded, damp terry towel as a massage strap. The rough texture of the towel provides enough friction to tighten up the leg muscles and restore them to beauty.

A good figure is rarely just a matter of good luck. It is a matter of self-discipline, good habits and constant attention to the right foods and exercise.

SURNAMES FIRST

In Chinese, surnames are always written first and that order usually is followed when they are written in English. For example, in Sun Yat-sen, Sun is the surname, while Yat-sen corresponds to the Occidental first, or Christian, name.

WE CAN HAVE IT BOTH WAYS!

"You offer to take in any car as a trade-in, and yet you claim that your used cars are only of the very best quality. How about that? You can't have it both ways!"

The customer who said that to me a few days ago was really having it on the line. And I'll admit the two claims seem contradictory. But they really aren't — when you know the rest of the story.

You see, we are "having it both ways" in another sense, for we're not only sellers of cars; we're buyers too — buyers of the cars we take as trade-ins.

Naturally, we have to know cars pretty well, to buy them as well as sell them. But we don't turn around and try to sell all these used cars back to the public. Instead, we pick out the cream of the used car crop. And they're the ones we put on our used car lot — after our mechanics have gone over them thoroughly, made the necessary repairs and satisfied themselves — and us — that the cars are in tiptop condition.

The rest of the cars — the beat-up jalopies that will spell grief for anyone who buys one of them — are the ones we get rid of by selling to firms that handle nothing but used cars or just junking them. (That, incidentally, is how used car dealers get the great majority of their cars — by buying trade-ins that the new car dealers don't want.)

So you see we CAN guarantee the tip-top condition of every one of the used cars we offer publicly.

And yet we CAN offer a liberal allowance for any used car traded in on a 1958 CHRYSLER or PLYMOUTH.

So if it's a car you want — either a new CHRYSLER or PLYMOUTH, or a good, reliable used car, drop around and see us. You'll be glad you did.

Chandlerville Students Sing To Shut-In Residents

CHANDLERVILLE — Following the objectives of good citizenship, a project attracting much interest here during the holidays was the singing of carols and presenting of favors to 30 homebound individuals by a group of the local high school students. The favors were made cooperatively by the eighth grade under the direction of Harold Wainright and the cookies were baked and packaged by the home economics girls under the supervision of their instructor, Miss Switzer. Mrs. Herbert Johnson assisted in the directing of carols.

Approximately $40 was donated to the Junior Red Cross by the local students this year and part of the amount was expended in connection with the above project. The remainder went to county sources.

W. E. Chapman was sponsor of the local group on the project during the holidays.

Personals

Mrs. Margaret Vollmers, Mrs. Theodore White and son visited Friday with relatives in Lincoln, Ill.

Mrs. Harry Crumlin was admitted to the Memorial Hospital in Springfield on Wednesday as a medical patient. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vaughn visited with Mrs. Crumlin on Friday.

Mrs. Ethel Johnson underwent surgery at the Memorial hospital in Springfield on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ray and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Updike were Oakford and Rushville visitors Wednesday evening.

MAINTAINS BALANCE
A vice president is not allowed to vote on measures before the Senate except in case of a tie, because to do so would disturb the principle of state equality. If he were given this right, his home state would have three votes as against two for the other states, because each state is represented by two senators.

BREAK FOR FREEDOM
CALHOUN, Ky. (AP)—Jack Johnson, jailed on several minor charges, dug a hole through the brick wall and dropped 16 feet to freedom.
But he didn't use it. Johnson crawled to the front door, knocked, and asked to be readmitted. He had broken his big toe.

OILY MEDICINE
North American Indians found oil seeping up through cracks in the earth and coming out on top of water in springs. They were using it for medicinal purposes when Jesuit missionaries came to North America early in the 1600s.

TAVERN HELPS
YOUNG, England (AP)—School meals are served at a tavern in this Derbyshire mining village because of lack of space at the school.
